southern Africa In the process Chidester provides a counterhistory of the academic study of religion an alternative to standard accounts that have failed to link the field of comparative religion with either the power relations or the historical contingencies of the imperial project In developing a material history of the study of religion Chidester documents the importance of African religion the persistence of the divide between savagery and civilization and the salience of mediations imperial colonial and indigenous in which knowledge about religions was produced He then identifies the recurrence of these mediations in a number of case studies including Friedrich Max Müller's dependence on colonial experts H Rider Haggard and John Buchan's fictional accounts of African religion and W E B Du Bois's studies of African religion By reclaiming these theorists for this history Chidester shows that race rather than theology was formative in the emerging study of religion in Europe and North America Sure to be controversial Empire of Religion is a major contribution to the field of comparative religious studies

American Enchantment Michelle Sizemore,2017-11-01 The demise of the monarchy and the bodily absence of a King caused a representational crisis in the early republic forcing the American people to reconstruct the social symbolic order in a new and unfamiliar way Social historians have routinely understood the Revolution and the early republic as projects dedicated to and productive of reason with the people as an orderly and sensible collective at odds with the volatile and unthinking crowd American Enchantment rejects this traditionally held vision of a rational public sphere arguing that early Americans dealt with the post monarchical crisis by engaging in civil mysticism not systematic discussion and debate By evaluating a wide range of social and political rituals and literary and cultural discourses Sizemore shows how enchantment becomes a vital mode of enacting the people after the demise of traditional monarchical forms In works by Charles Brockden Brown Washington Irving Catharine Sedgwick and Nathaniel Hawthorne as well as in Delaware oral histories accounts of George Washington's inauguration and Methodist conversion narratives enchantment is an experience uniquely capable of producing new forms of popular power and social affiliation Recognizing the role of enchantment in constituting the people overturns some of the most common sense assumptions in the post revolutionary world above all that the people are not simply a flesh and blood substance but also a mystical force
