Imperialism Bradley Deane, 2014-05-29 At the end of the nineteenth century the zenith of its imperial chauvinism and jingoistic fervour Britain's empire was bolstered by a surprising new ideal of manliness one that seemed less English than foreign less concerned with moral development than perpetual competition less civilized than savage This study examines the revision of manly ideals in relation to an ideological upheaval whereby the liberal imperialism of Gladstone was eclipsed by the New Imperialism of Disraeli and his successors Analyzing such popular genres as lost world novels school stories and early science fiction it charts the decline of mid century ideals of manly self control and the rise of new dreams of gamesmanship and frank brutality It reveals moreover the dependence of imperial masculinity on real and imagined exchanges between men of different nations and races so that visions of hybrid masculinities and honorable rivalries energized Britain's sense of its New Imperialist destiny      The Pulpit, 1894      Defoe's America Dennis Todd, 2010-07-08 The Americas appear as an evocative setting in more than half of Daniel Defoe's novels and often offer a new beginning for his characters In the first full length study of Defoe and colonialism Dennis Todd explores why the New World loomed so large in Defoe's imagination By focusing on the historical contexts that informed Defoe's depiction of American Indians African slaves and white indentured servants Dennis Todd investigates the colonial assumptions that shaped his novels and at the same time uncovers how Defoe used details of the American experience in complex often figurative ways to explore the psychological bases of the profound conversions and transformations that his heroes and heroines undergo And by examining what Defoe knew and did not know about America what he falsely believed and what he knowingly falsified Defoe s America probes the doubts hesitations and contradictions he had about the colonial project he so fervently promoted

Profiling Violent Crimes Ronald M. Holmes, Stephen T. Holmes, 2008-12-01 As in previous editions this book is appropriate for criminal investigation forensic psychology criminal behavior and interpersonal violence courses generally as a supplement to a core text or as one of several paperbacks The authors continuing research and involvement in field investigation are a source of relevant and often high profile case studies to illustrate theory and application of methods shown Chapters include Arson Pedophilia and Psychological Profiling and Rape This edition features a new chapter on Lizzie Borden analyzing this historic murder case with fresh insight and a unique analysis The text is particularly readable and engaging making frequent use of illustrative tables figures and occasional photos
