Savage Systems Colonialism And Comparative Religion In Southern Africa:

Savage Systems David Chidester, 1996 Savage Systems examines the emergence of the concepts of religion and religions on colonial frontiers. The book offers a detailed analysis of the ways in which European travelers, missionaries, settlers, and government agents, as well as indigenous Africans, engaged in the comparison of alternative religious ways of life as one dimension of intercultural contact. Focusing primarily on nineteenth-century frontier relations, David Chidester demonstrates that the terms and conditions for comparison, including a discourse about otherness that were established during this period, still remain. A volume in the series Studies in Religion and Culture. Savage Systems David Chidester, 1996-01-01 Savage Systems examines the emergence of the concepts of religion and religions on colonial frontiers. The book offers a detailed analysis of the ways in which European travelers, missionaries, settlers, and government agents, as well as indigenous Africans, engaged in the comparison of alternative religious ways of life as one dimension of intercultural contact. Focusing primarily on nineteenth-century frontier relations, David Chidester demonstrates that the terms and conditions for comparison, including a discourse about otherness, that were established during this period still remain. Empire of Religion David Chidester, 2014-03-19 How is knowledge about religion and religions produced and how is that knowledge authenticated and circulated? David Chidester seeks to answer these questions in Empire of Religion, documenting and analyzing the emergence of a science of comparative religion in Great Britain during the second half of the nineteenth century and its complex relations to the colonial situation in southern Africa. In the process, Chidester provides a counterhistory of the academic study of religion, an alternative to standard accounts that have failed to link the field of comparative religion with either the power relations or the historical contingencies of the imperial project. In developing a material history of the study of religion, Chidester documents the importance of African religion, the persistence of the divide between savagery and civilization, and the salience of mediations, imperial, colonial, and indigenous, in which knowledge about religions was produced. He then identifies the recurrence of these mediations in a number of case studies, including Friedrich Max Müller's dependence on colonial experts H. Rider Haggard and John Buchan's fictional accounts of African religion, and W. E. B. Du Bois's studies of African religion. By reclaiming these theorists for this history, Chidester shows that race, rather than theology, was formative in the emerging study of religion in Europe and North America. Sure to be controversial, Empire of Religion is a major contribution to the field of comparative religious studies. Religion David Chidester, 2018-04-20 Religion Material Dynamics is a lively resource for thinking about religious materiality and the material study of religion. Deconstructing and reconstructing religion as material categories, social formations, and mobile circulations, the book explores the making, ordering, and circulating of religious things. The book is divided into three sections. Part One revitalizes basic categories, animism, and sacred space and time by situating them in their material production and testing their analytical viability. Part Two examines religious formations as configurations of power that operate in material cultures and cultural economies, and are most clearly shown in the power relations of colonialism and imperialism Part Three explores the material dynamics of circulation through case studies of religious mobility change and diffusion as intimate as the body and as vast as the oceans Each chapter offers insightful orientations and surprising possibilities for studying material religion Exploring the material dynamics of religion from poetics to politics David Chidester provides an entry into the study of material religion that will be welcomed by students and specialists in religious studies anthropology and history

The Idea of Semitic Monotheism Guy G. Stroumsa, 2021-05-20 The Idea of Semitic Monotheism examines some major aspects of the scholarly study of religion in the long nineteenth century from the Enlightenment to the First World War It aims to understand the new status of Judaism and Islam in the formative period of the new discipline Guy G Stroumsa focuses on the concept of Semitic monotheism a concept developed by Ernest Renan around the mid nineteenth century on the basis of the postulated and highly problematic contradistinction between Aryan and Semitic families of peoples cultures and religions This contradistinction grew from the Western discovery of Sanskrit and its relationship with European languages at the time of the Enlightenment and Romanticism Together with the rise of scholarly Orientalism this discovery offered new perspectives on the East as a consequence of which the Near East was demoted from its traditional status as the locus of the Biblical revelations This innovative work studies a central issue in the modern study of religion Doing so however it emphasizes the new dualistic taxonomy of religions had major consequences and sheds new light on the roots of European attitudes to Jews and Muslims in the twentieth century up to the present day

Religion and Global Culture Jennifer I. M. Reid, 2003-02-22 Religion and Global Culture draws together the work of a group of historians of religion who are concerned with situating the contemporary study of religion within the cultural complexity of the modern world The writing of each of the volume s contributors relates to the work of leading historian of religion Charles H Long who has identified religious meanings in the contacts and exchanges of the colonial and postcolonial periods Together with Long these scholars explore religious practices in a variety of globalized contexts chapters consider such varied subjects as the rituals of African immigrant communities in the United States the making of Mohawk sweet grass and black ash baskets the religious experience of prisoners in the Nazi holding camp of Westerbork and the regional repercussions of contemporary multi national business By locating religion in the conflicted and cooperative relationships of the colonial and postcolonial periods Religion and Global Culture calls on scholars of religion to reconfigure their interpretive stances from the perspective of the material structures of the modern globalized world

RePresenting Magic, UnDoing Evil: Of Human Inner Light and Darkness Alexandra Cheira, 2020-04-14 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2012 The chapters assembled in this e Book are a taste of an ongoing discussion on evil and magic which promises to last as long as the only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing and while the realisation that magic is believing in yourself if you can do that you can make anything happen does not become a global motto The first group of chapters collected in Part I addresses the ethics and effects of translating magic into literary representations as well as real life current practices of creativity and personal change on the one hand and of the harmful malevolent infliction of pain on a third party on another thus challenging the boundaries of the cultural binary constructions of magic as either good or evil In Part II the second group of chapters examines several philosophical theological historical literary political and pop culture attempts towards understanding different meanings and kinds of evil thus broadening our perception of what evil is and how it has been theorized from Plato to contemporary international politics This is our time our call our responsibility to undo evil by carrying the magical torch of good to the next station so that good as if by magic can also become contagious among the human kind

Postcolonial Imagination and Feminist Theology Pui-lan Kwok, 2005-01-01 The burgeoning field of postcolonial studies argues that most theology has been formed in dominant cultures laden intrinsically with imperializing structures An essential task facing theology is thus to decolonize the mind and free Christianity from colonizing bias and structures Here in this truly groundbreaking study highly respected feminist theologian Kwok Pui lan offers the first full length theological treatment of what it means to do postcolonial feminist theology She explains her methodological basis and explores several specific topics including Christology pluralism and creation

International Perspectives on Citizenship, Education and Religious Diversity Robert Jackson, 2003-09-02 Citizenship is high on the agenda of education systems in many of the world's democracies As yet however discussions of citizenship education have neglected issues of religious diversity and how the study of religions can contribute to our understanding of citizenship International Perspectives on Citizenship Education and Religious Diversity brings together an international range of contributions from religious studies scholars and educators specialising in the study of religions Together these illustrate and explore the key questions for educational theory and pedagogy raised by drawing issues of religious diversity into citizenship education The chapters address and extend debates over the nature of citizenship in late modernity highlighting local and global dimensions of citizenship in relation to issues of national religious ethnic and cultural identity As well as emphasising the role religious education has to play in citizenship education this book also covers wider issues such as state supported faith schools and cultural diversity in relation to common citizenship The authors argue that critical yet reflective approaches to religious education have a distinctive and valuable contribution to make to citizenship education Issues addressed within the study of religions are related to new forms of global and cultural citizenship as well as citizenship within the nation state Ultimately this stimulating and original collection highlights the challenges and possibilities for teaching and learning about religion religions and religious diversity within an inclusive educational practice

Judge and be Judged Eric Bain-Selbo, 2006-01-01 Judge and Be Judged offers insights into moral life and moral judgment that aim to help in understanding our society's tendency towards either fundamentalism or relativism By examining the social function of shame the possibility of cross cultural understanding and obstacles to moral judgment in the classroom this book charts a path that helps to avoid both fundamentalism and relativism

Isaiah Shembe's Hymns and the Sacred Dance in Ibandla

lamaNazaretha Nkosingathi Sithole, 2016-06-21 In Isaiah Shembe's Hymns and the Sacred Dance in Ibandla lamaNazaretha Nkosingathi Sithole explores the hymns of Prophet Isaiah Shembe and the sacred dance in Ibandla. LamaNazaretha offers an emic perspective on the Church which has attracted scholars from different disciplines. Isaiah Shembe's Hymns and the Sacred Dance in Ibandla posits that in the hymns Shembe found a powerful medium through which he could voice his concerns as an African in colonial times while praising and worshipping God. Sithole also refutes claims by some scholars that the sacred dance was a response to colonialism and oppression, showing that in fact the sacred dance in Ibandla lamaNazaretha is considered to be a form of worship and is thought to exist on earth and in heaven.

Judaizing

Movements Tudor Parfitt, Emanuela Semi, 2013-12-16 The history of Judaizing movements has been largely ignored by historians of religion. This volume analyzes the interplay between colonialism, a Judaism not traditionally viewed as proselytising but which at certain points was struggling to heed the Prophets and become a light unto the Gentiles and the attraction for many different peoples of the rooted historicity of Judaism and by the symbolic appropriation of Jewish suffering. This book will look at the role of colonialism in the development of Judaizing movements throughout the world, including New Zealand, Japan, India, Burma, and Africa. Particular attention will be paid to the Lemba tribe of Southern Africa. A remarkable parallel movement in 1930s Southern Italy will also be dealt with. The history of the converts of San Nicandro is seen in the context of currents of Jewish universalism, messianism, and Zionism. Gender issues are also discussed here as the converted women assumed powers they had not hitherto enjoyed.

Religion, Theory, Critique Richard King, 2017-07-18 Religion Theory Critique is an essential tool for learning about theory and method in the study of religion. Leading experts engage with contemporary and classical theories as well as non-Western cultural contexts. Unlike other collections, this anthology emphasizes the dynamic relationship between religion as an object of study and different methodological approaches and openly addresses the question of the manifold ways in which religion, secular, and culture are imagined within different disciplinary horizons. This volume is the first textbook which seeks to engage discussion of classical approaches with contemporary cultural and critical theories. Contributors write on the influence of the natural sciences in the study of religion, the role of European Christianity in modeling theories of religion, religious experience and the interface with cognitive science, the structure and function of religious language, the social scientific study of religion, ritual in religion, the phenomenology of religion, critical theory and religion, embodiment and religion, the impact of colonialism and modernity, theorizing religion in terms of race and ethnicity, links among religion, nationalism and globalization, the interplay of gender, sex and religion, and religion and the environment. Each chapter introduces the topic, identifies key theorists and issues, and respects the pluralistic nature of the scholarship in the field. Altogether, this collection scrutinizes the explicit and implicit assumptions theorists make about religion as an object of analysis.
