Storming the Gates of Paradise Rebecca Solnit, 2007-06-18 This anthology of Solnit's essential essays from the past ten years takes the reader from the Pyrenees to the U S Mexican border from open sky to the deepest mines and offers a panoramic world view enriched by the author's characteristically provocative inspiring and hopeful observations A Passion for Nature Donald Worster, 2008 Donald Worster's A Passion for Nature is the most complete account of the great conservationist and founder of the Sierra Club ever written. It is the first to be based on Muir's full private correspondence and to meet modern scholarly standards yet it is also full of rich detail and personal anecdote uncovering the complex inner life behind the legend of the solitary mountain man. It traces Muir from his boyhood in Scotland and frontier Wisconsin to his adult life in California right after the Civil War up to his death on the eve of World War I. It explores his marriage and family life, his relationship with his abusive father, his many friendships with the humble and famous including Theodore Roosevelt and Ralph Waldo Emerson, and his role in founding the modern American conservation movement. Inspired by Muir's passion for the wilderness, Americans created a long and stunning list of national parks and wilderness areas, Yosemite most prominent among them. Yet the book also describes a Muir who was a successful fruit grower, a talented scientist and world traveler, a doting father and husband, and a self-made man of wealth and political influence. The winner of numerous book awards, A Passion for Nature was also named a Best Book of 2008 by Washington Post Book World. It is the first comprehensive biography of Muir to appear in six decades. US Environmental History John Wills, 2012-11-28

Environmental issues in the USA are more important now than ever before. The devastation inflicted by Hurricane Katrina, growing evidence of global warming, and a struggling national energy supply highlight the unfolding crisis. Environmental fears translate into US automobile giants plying consumers with fuel-efficient cars in the MPG Lounge of sales. Politicians talk of energy independence and getting tough on polluters. Fears gravitate around a fast-approaching doomsday scenario: an environmental endgame of wholesale collapse unless something is done. Yet fears of doomsday are nothing new. John Wills shows how the current environmental crisis is firmly rooted in the past. As well as explaining how today's problems are manifestations of older systems of economics, culture, and politics, he also argues that America has already witnessed a range of doomsday scenarios, both real and imagined. He identifies and explores a cast of doomsday landscapes that includes the Battle of the Wilderness in Virginia, the Santa Barbara Oil Spill, the Fable for Tomorrow town featured in Rachel Carson's Silent Spring 1962, and Nevada's Doom Towns 1 and 2 blown apart by atomic testing in the 1950s. He reflects on contemporary ruminations over whether nature as a category endures given both the rising contamination of the US landscape and consumer proclivity for celebrating fake mementos of the outdoors such as plastic lawn flamingos and artificial plants. And most significantly, he poses the question of whether Americans have been inviting doomsday through their long-term environmental actions.
