Language in the 21st Century Humphrey Tonkin, Timothy G. Reagan, 2003-01-01 What is the future of languages in an increasingly globalized world Are we moving toward the use of a single language for global communication or are there ways of managing language diversity at the international level Can we or should we maintain a balance between the global need to communicate and the maintenance of local and regional identities and cultures What is the role of education of language rights of language equality in this volatile global linguistic mix A group of leading scholars in sociolinguistics and language policy examines trends in language use across the world to find answers to these questions and to make predictions about likely outcomes Highlighted in the discussion are among other issues the rapidly changing role of English the equally rapid decline and death of small languages the future of the major European languages the international use of constructed languages like Esperanto and not least the question of what role applied scholarship can and should play in mapping and influencing the future
