Lucas, 1974 According to Baba Stacey Zembrzycki, 2014-04-08 Dreams of steady employment in the mining sector led thousands of Ukrainian immigrants to northern Ontario in the early 1900s As a child Stacey Zembrzycki listened to her baba s stories about Sudbury s small but polarized Ukrainian community and what it was like growing up ethnic during the Depression According to Baba grew out of those stories out of a fledgling historian s desire to capture the experiences of her grandparents generation on paper Eighty two interviews conducted by Stacey and her grandmother laid the groundwork for this insightful and personal social history of Sudbury s Ukrainian community The interviews also brought to light the challenges of doing oral history particularly as Stacey lost authority to her Baba wrestled it back and eventually came to share it By disclosing the hard work that goes into making communities partners in research Zembrzycki offers a new paradigm for writing oral history and for studying the politics of memory Capitalism and Colonialism: The Making of Modern Canada 1890-1960 Bryan D. Palmer, 2025-09-02 This second volume of Bryan Palmer s history of Canada covers 1890 to 1960 Weaving together themes that include business labour politics and social history this account brings the experiences of Indigenous peoples into the centre of the narrative Canada experienced extraordinary growth during these decades notably after the Second World War when many Canadians quickly became far better off Yet vast inequalities persisted Indigenous peoples experienced ongoing and often worsening deprivation and ordinary people saw little or no real improvement in their lives These realities set the stage for the interplay of reform resistance and reaction that followed after 1960 Palmer examines the continuing role of capitalism and colonialism in structuring Canada in the period between 1890 and 1960 from capital s conflicts and fragile ententes with labour to the struggles of Indigenous Peoples and francophone Canada and the changing role of Canadian capital internationally Relying on the work of scholars who have produced a vast academic literature on a wide range of topics in Canadian history Bryan Palmer offers a new history of Canada which reflects the knowledge and values of 21st century Canadians The Lights on the Tipple Are Going Out Thomas Langford, 2024-10-01 The Canadian postwar economic boom did not include one western coal mining region When the Canadian Pacific Railway switched to diesel power over 2 000 coal production jobs were lost in the Crowsnest Pass and Elk Valley The Lights on the Tipple Are Going Out tells the story of its fight for survival Underground mine closures began in 1950 prompting attempts by unions leftist parties municipal governments and business groups to save the local economy Efforts to reindustrialize in the mid 1960s brought unregulated growth unsafe working conditions and pollution Starting in 1968 new strip mines were built to produce metallurgical coal for Asia Pacific steelmakers Not only is this an interesting regional history but the consideration of the role of labour unions local communists and grassroots environmentalists makes it especially compelling Today with technological change in steel manufacturing on the horizon propelled by the climate crisis Langford argues that the Crowsnest Pass and Elk Valley must look toward ecosystem restoration sustainable economic activities and the inclusion of First Nations in decision making in order to embrace a future beyond coal institutions to reveal the dynamics of inclusion and exclusion that animate Canadian society Applying Jeffrey Alexander's groundbreaking civil sphere theory to Indigenous settler relations media scandals multiculturalism urban planning and personal relations contributors demonstrate that transformations in shared meaning must precede legislative and institutional change Profoundly harmful behaviours such as cultural appropriation sexual misconduct and even genocide may pass as routine for years before the public decides they are unacceptable breaches of civil order This superb collection ushers Canadian voices into a burgeoning international debate about the role of the civil sphere in effecting social justice
