Modern China From Mandarin To Commissar:

Modern China Dun Jen Li, 1978 Explaining Chinese Democratization Shaohua Hu, 2000-01-30 Hu seeks to explain China's failure to establish a democratic system. He demonstrates both continuity and change in China's democratization process. Modern China regards power and wealth as primary goals and treats a strong state as a major means to these ends. Such a preference puts democracy on a back burner. Employing a theoretical framework which consists of five factors: historical legacies, local forces, the world system, socialist values, and economic development, Hu shows that while all of these factors were at work in all eras, each assumes a special significance in a particular period. Traditional China, before the 1911 Revolution, attempted to adjust itself to a new Western-dominated world. In the Republican era, the control of local forces topped the political agenda. Nationalist China sought to survive and develop in the world system, while Maoist China set for itself the task of building a socialist state. And of course, economic development has been the priority of the Deng era. As Hu shows, these five factors have had determining impacts on the long struggle for democracy in China.

Chen Jiongming and the Federalist Movement Leslie Chen, 1999 The local self-government movement in China began in the late Qing and by the Revolution of 1911, no less than five thousand self-government councils had formed around the country. While the idea of a federated state was cherished by early revolutionaries, a growing conflict between federalist and centralist leaders culminated in the defeat of federalism in the mid 1920s. The story of this movement has since remained hidden behind Nationalist and Communist accounts of the early revolutionary struggle. This study of Chen Jiongming's political career reopens the record on federalist efforts, focusing on Chen's policies and administrative achievements in Fujian and Guangdong. It describes Chen's role in the tumultuous politics of southern China from 1909 until his death in 1933, including his relationship and notorious break with Sun Yat-sen, the leader of the centralist revolutionaries. Leslie Chen argues that his father's attempts to create a democratic federalist system in Guangdong were aimed at providing a model for China as a whole. His account is lively and readable; it gives an intimate yet historically accurate account of Chen Jiongming's considerable role in early twentieth-century Chinese history. Leslie Chen was born in Guangdong, China. In 1988, he compiled A Collection of Historiographic Materials for a Biography of Chen Chiung-ming (Jiongming 1878-1933). He has published two Chinese language biographies of Chen Jiongming.

1946 Victor Sebestyen, 2016-11-29 Nineteen forty-six is the year that would signal the beginning of the Cold War, the end of the British Empire, and the beginning of the rivalry between the United States and the USSR. Victor Sebestyen reveals the year's events by chronologically framing what was taking place in Europe, the Middle East, and Asia, with seminal decisions made by heads of state that would profoundly change the old order forever. The map of Eastern Europe would be redrawn. Chinese communists would gain decisive victories in their fight for power and the world would witness the birth of Israel 1946 was a year of seismic and dramatic events Drawing on personal testimonies and new archival research Sebestyen has written a vivid and compelling narrative that brilliantly evokes the beginning of the Cold War set against a devastated landscape of dystopian horrors With 16 pages of black and white photographs

China Peter Cheng, 1983 Modern China I. W. Mabbett, 2024-11-01 Most writing on modern China dwells on those aspects which are new to China since the Communist takeover stressing above all politics Marxism economic and agricultural development First published in 1985 Modern China argues that all this writing creates a false impression of what present day China is really like This book contends that much of traditional China remains particularly at the grass roots level and that Buddhism and the Buddhist tradition continue to exert an influence Politics in communist China is best understood in the context of this tradition Throughout arguments are supported by revealing how tradition continues in the economy in society and the family by examining in detail the Buddhist tradition and by using the case study of education to show the interplay between modern and customary forces Library Journal ,1978 The Journal of Asian Studies ,1979
