Exploring the Legacy of the 1948 Arnhem Land Expedition Martin Thomas,Margo Neale,2011-06-01 In 1948 a collection of scientists anthropologists and photographers journeyed to northern Australia for a seven month tour of research and discovery now regarded as the last of the big expeditions The American Australian Scientific Expedition to Arnhem Land was front page news at the time but 60 years later it is virtually unknown This lapse into obscurity was due partly to the fraught politics of Australian anthropology and animus towards its leader the Adelaide based writer photographer Charles Mountford Promoted as a friendly mission that would foster good relations between Australia and its most powerful wartime ally the Expedition was sponsored by National Geographic the Smithsonian Institution and the Australian Government An unlikely cocktail of science diplomacy and popular geography the Arnhem Land Expedition put the Aboriginal cultures of the vast Arnhem Land reserve on an international stage Publisher s website

The Makers and Making of Indigenous Australian Museum Collections Nicolas Peterson,Lindy Allen,Louise Hamby,2008 This volume of original essays brings together for the first time histories of the making and of the makers of most of the major Indigenous Australian museum collections These collections are a principal source of information on how Aboriginal people lived in the past Knowing the context in which any collection was created the intellectual frameworks within which the collectors were working their collecting practices what they failed to collect and what Aboriginal people withheld is vital to understanding how any collection relates to the Aboriginal society from which it was derived Once made collections have had mixed fates some have become the jewel of a museum s holdings while others have been divided and dispersed across the world or retained but neglected The essays in this volume raise issues about representation institutional policies the periodisation of collecting intellectual history material culture studies Aboriginal culture and the idea of a collection

Histories of Australian Rock Art Research Jo McDonald,2022-09-06 Australia has one of the largest inventories of rock art in the world with pictographs and petroglyphs found almost anywhere that has suitable rock surfaces in rock shelters and caves on boulders and rock platforms First Nations people have been marking these places with figurative imagery abstract designs stencils and prints for tens of thousands of years often engaging with earlier rock markings The art reflects and expresses changing experiences within landscapes over time spirituality history law and lore as well as relationships between individuals and groups of people plants animals land and Ancestral Beings that are said to have created the world including some rock art Since the late 1700s people arriving in Australia have been fascinated with the rock art they encountered with detailed studies commencing in the late 1800s Through the 1900s an impressive body of research on Australian rock art was undertaken with dedicated academic study using archaeological methods employed since the late 1940s Since then Australian rock art has been researched from various perspectives including that of Traditional Owners custodians and other community members Through the 1900s there was also growing interest in Australian rock art from researchers across the globe leading many to visit or migrate to Australia to undertake rock art research In this volume the varied histories of Australian rock art research from different parts of the country are explored not only in terms of key researchers developments and changes over time but also the crucial role of First Nations people themselves in investigations of this key component of their living heritage

Indigenous Archaeologies Claire Smith,H. Martin Wobst,2004-11-10 With case studies from North America to Australia and South Africa and covering topics from archaeological ethics to the repatriation of human remains this book charts the development of a new form of archaeology that is informed by indigenous values and agendas This involves fundamental changes in archaeological theory and practice as well as substantive changes in the power relations between archaeologists and indigenous peoples Questions concerning the development of ethical archaeological practices are at the heart of this process

Clever Men Martin Thomas,2025-06-03 What really happened when Charles Mountford led a quarrelsome team of Australian and American scientists to explore traditional Aboriginal life in Arnhem Land in 1948 Here was I with the status of little more than a telephone mechanic taking out the biggest scientific expedition in history In this way the legendary Charles Mountford immodestly described his biggest assignment to lead an expedition of American and Australian scientists to Arnhem Land in northern Australia investigating traditional Aboriginal life and the tropical environment Backed by National Geographic the Smithsonian Institution and the Australian government it was also a display of the friendship between Australia and the US But the adventure turned out to be anything but friendly In this compelling account award winning historian Martin Thomas tells how they set out with fanfare in 1948 and how quickly the expedition turned toxic Thomas uncovers the secrets scandals and unlikely achievements He also reveals how Indigenous communities including the elders known as clever men dealt with the intrusion of these foreign experts Drawing on years of collaborative research with Arnhem Land communities Clever Men is a poignant portrayal of colliding worlds In this encounter between scientific hubris and the world's oldest surviving cultures Thomas finds a story of global significance and profound long term impacts An epic saga of discovery intrigue obsession and pillage Margo Ngawa Neale Absolutely mesmerising Grace Karskens Depicted as an epic Shakespearean like tragedy Clever Men weaves complex strands in a compelling story of western interaction with Indigenous Australia Peter Yu This galloping narrative of Arnhem Land draws on years of intense research by one of Australia's sharpest historians Peter Read A deep dive into the fraught interface between the shallow intrusive gaze and rapacious acquisitiveness of the expedition and the profound secret sacred understanding of its Indigenous subjects Cassandra Pybus

Expedition into Empire Martin Thomas,2014-09-04 Expeditionary journeys have shaped our world but the expedition as a cultural form is rarely scrutinized This book is the first major investigation of the conventions and social practices embedded in team based exploration In probing the politics of expedition making this volume is itself a pioneering journey through the cultures of empire With contributions from established and emerging scholars Expedition into Empire plots the rise and transformation of expeditionary journeys from the eighteenth century until the present Conceived as a series of spotlights on imperial travel and colonial expansion it roves widely from the metropolitan centers to the ends of the earth This collection is both rigorous and accessible containing lively case studies from writers long immersed in exploration travel literature and the dynamics of cross cultural encounter

Farmers or Hunter-gatherers? Peter Sutton, Keryn Walshe, 2021-06-16 Australians understanding of Aboriginal society prior to the British invasion from 1788 has been transformed since the publication of Bruce Pascoe s Dark Emu in 2014 It argued that classical Aboriginal society was more sophisticated than Australians had been led to believe because it resembled more closely the farming communities of Europe In Farmers or Hunter gatherers Peter Sutton and Keryn Walshe ask why Australians have been so receptive to the notion that farming represents an advance from hunting and gathering Drawing on the knowledge of Aboriginal elders previously not included within this discussion and decades of anthropological scholarship Sutton and Walshe provide extensive evidence to support their argument that classical Aboriginal society was a hunter gatherer society and as sophisticated as the traditional European farming methods Farmers or Hunter gatherers asks Australians to develop a deeper understanding and appreciation of Aboriginal society and culture

Australian Explorers by Sea, Land, and Air, 1788-1988 Ian Francis McLaren, 1991

Circulating Cultures Amanda Harris, 2014-12-18 Circulating Cultures is an edited book about the transformation of cultural materials through the Australian landscape The book explores cultural circulation exchange and transit through events such as the geographical movement of song series across the Kimberley and Arnhem Land the transformation of Australian Aboriginal dance in the hands of an American choreographer and the indigenisation of symbolic meanings in heavy metal music Circulating Cultures crosses disciplinary boundaries with contributions from historians musicologists linguists and dance historians to depict shifts of cultural materials through time place and interventions from people It looks at the way Indigenous and non Indigenous performing arts have changed through intercultural influence and collaboration

Guide to the Collections National Library of Australia, 1910

Collecting Cultures Sally K. May, 2010 Collecting Cultures investigates colonial museum collecting practices in indigenous communities based upon the case of the 1948 American Australian Scientific Expedition to Arnhem Land

Spinning the Dream Anna Haebich, 2008-03-01 In Spinning the Dream multi award winning historian Anna Haebich re evaluates the experience of Assimilation in Australia providing a meticulously researched and masterfully written assessment of its implications for Australia s Indigenous and ethnic minorities and for immigration and refugee policy

Arguments about Aborigines L. R. Hiatt, 1996-06-27 In the debates which followed the publication of Darwin s book on the origin of species Australian Aborigines were used as the ideal exemplars of early human forms by European scholars bent on discovering the origins of social institutions The Aborigines have consequently featured as the crucial case study for generations of social theorists including Tylor Frazer Durkheim and Freud Arguments about Aborigines reviews a range of controversies such as family life religion and ritual and land rights which marked the formative period of British social anthropology Professor Hiatt also examines how changes in Aboriginal practices have affected scholarly debate This elegant 1996 book will provide a valuable introduction to aboriginal ethnography for students scholars and the general reader It is also a shrewd and stimulating history of the great debates of anthropology seen through the prism of Aboriginal studies The British Library general catalogue of printed books to 1975 British Library,1984 Library of Congress Catalog Library of Congress,1970 A cumulative list of works represented by Library of Congress printed cards Library of Congress Catalogs Library of Congress,1976 Australian National Bibliography ,1974
