and smaller plants that thrive in New Mexico's many life zones and growing areas is now available in a long awaited new edition. Landscape architect Baker H. Morrow considers the significant factors that impact planting in New Mexico including soil conditions, altitude, drought, urban expansion, climate change, and ultraviolet radiation to provide the tools for successful gardens and landscapes in the state. Added photographs and sketches identify the forms and uses of plants including many new species that have become widely available in the region since the 1990s. The latest recommendations for specific cities and towns include more photos for ease of reference and botanical names have also been updated. With ingenuity and efficient water management, Morrow demonstrates how to create landscapes that provide shade, color, oxygen, soil protection, windscreening, and outdoor enjoyment.

The Physical Geography of South America Thomas T. Veblen, Kenneth R. Young, Antony R. Orme, 2015-04-01. The Physical Geography of South America, the eighth volume in the Oxford Regional Environments series, presents an enduring statement on the physical and biogeographic conditions of this remarkable continent and their relationships to human activity. It fills a void in recent environmental literature by assembling a team of specialists from within and beyond South America in order to provide an integrated cross disciplinary body of knowledge about this mostly tropical continent together with its high mountains and temperate southern cone. The authors systematically cover the main components of the South American environment: tectonism, climate, glaciation, natural landscape changes, rivers, vegetation, animals, and soils. The book then presents more specific treatments of regions with special attributes from the tropical forests of the Amazon basin to the Atacama Desert and Patagonian steppe, and from the Atlantic, Caribbean, and Pacific coasts to the high Andes. Additionally, the continent's environments are given a human face by evaluating the roles played by people over time from pre-European and European colonial impacts to the effects of modern agriculture and urbanization, and from interactions with El Niño events to prognoses for the future environments of the continent.
