Environmental Challenges in the Mediterranean 2000-2050 Antonio Marquina Barrio, 2004-02-29 This book addresses six key factors that will affect environmental policies in the Mediterranean region during the next fifty years population growth climate change soil erosion and desertification water scarcity food production and urbanization and pollution The authors assess these as potential sources of violent conflict The interdisciplinary approach makes this a relevant and useful reference for a broad range of professionals specialists and researchers States, Scarcity, and Civil Strife in the Developing World Colin H. Kahl, 2018-06-05 Over the past several decades civil and ethnic wars have undermined prospects for economic and political development destabilized entire regions of the globe and left millions dead States Scarcity and Civil Strife in the Developing World argues that demographic and environmental stress the interactions among rapid population growth environmental degradation inequality and emerging scarcities of vital natural resources represents one important source of turmoil in today s world Kahl contends that this type of stress places enormous strains on both societies and governments in poor countries increasing their vulnerability to armed conflict He identifies two pathways whereby this process unfolds state failure and state exploitation State failure conflicts occur when population growth environmental degradation and resource inequality weaken the capacity legitimacy and cohesion of governments thereby expanding the opportunities and incentives for rebellion and intergroup violence State exploitation conflicts in contrast occur when political leaders themselves capitalize on the opportunities arising from population pressures natural resource scarcities and related social grievances to instigate violence that serves their parochial interests Drawing on a wide array of social science theory this book argues that demographically and environmentally induced conflicts are most likely to occur in countries that are deeply split along ethnic religious regional or class lines and which have highly exclusive and discriminatory political systems The empirical portion of the book evaluates the theoretical argument through in depth case studies of civil strife in the Philippines Kenya and numerous other countries The book concludes with an analysis of the challenges demographic and environmental change will pose to international security in the decades ahead

Environmental Challenges in the Mediterranean 2000-2050 Antonio Marquina, 2012-12-06 This book collects most of the contributions prepared for the NATO Advanced Research Workshop ARW on Environmental Challenges in the Mediterranean 2000 2050 The ARW took place in Madrid from 2 to 5 of October 2002 Scholars and researchers from North and South of the Mediterranean and other countries from NATO gathered in Madrid for discussing several important factors that could affect Mediterranean security in the next 50 years In this regard the first chapter presents the different debates regarding environmental security that took place in the last decade This chapter is an introductory chapter and takes into account the possible audience in the Southern Mediterranean and the wishes of some contributors For this reason the chapter deals in extenso with the question of human security and the different approaches The ARW dealt with issues that may affect the supply of fundamental goods for human living To this end the complex question of climate change its impact in the Mediterranean the predicted increase in temperatures and predictions about rainfall are analysed As part of this approach a chapter about solar variability and climate change is also added

The Science and Impact of Climate Change Asheem Srivastav,2018-12-13 This volume provides a holistic and concise overview of the complex science of climate change involving the interplay of multiple factors It also acts as a primer and a one source reference to all the aspects of climate change allowing researchers to understand the complexity of this science and to see the larger picture thereby aiming towards holistic solutions Beginning in the second half of the twentieth century the impacts of climate change have been the worst nightmare to hit humanity so fiercely causing loss of human life and irreparable destruction to natural and man made infrastructure in many parts of the world The difference between climate change now and in the past is that of sudden and disproportionate disruption of the natural energy dynamics by the changing consumption patterns of billions of human beings who in their quest for economic superiority have polluted the terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems The picture that emerges from the exhaustive analysis of international data drawn from the most reliable sources indicates that we have possibly gained access to the gateway of extinction and it is time that we take corrective steps immediately The book's chapters not only provide an overview of climate change science but also include detailed discussion on current research This unique analytical text is suitable for conservation environmentalists researchers and academicians working in the field along with policy makers research and training institutes and nongovernment organizations Megacities and Rapid Urbanization: Breakthroughs in Research and Practice Management Association, Information Resources, 2019-07-05 As the global population continues to increase it has become necessary to find ways to handle this increase through various policy tools that address population growth and urbanization problems The urbanization process has both potential issues and opportunities that need to be exploited to move societies forward Megacities and Rapid Urbanization Breakthroughs in Research and Practice examines trends challenges issues and strategies related to population growth and rapid urbanization and its impact on urban environments The book also explores the use of different governance approaches in addressing challenges and different tools and systems of appropriate allocation to address issues This publication is an ideal reference source for academicians students practitioners professionals managers urban planners and government officials

Environment and Development in Africa Sam Stuart, 2013-10-22 Environment and Development in Africa is a two part book that first attempts to weave together a set of forecasts as realistically as possible and in a certain sense constitutes the scheme of future trends in the environment and development in Africa The second part investigates three kinds of eventualities Scenario 1 looks at dependent growth and environmental misuse The second scenario is based on the hypothesis that Africa will have greater autonomy in growth or development This situation will afford greater room for maneuver within which environmental considerations may find their place Greywater Use in the Middle East Stephen McIlwaine, Mark Redwood, 2010 In water scarce areas of the Middle East greywater household wastewater excluding toilet waste is commonly used by poor communities to irrigate home gardens This both supplements the water available to the household and improves food security This book draws together material presented at a conference in Jordan in 2007 and examines the technical approaches to treating and using greywater for irrigation including its associated risks to health and the environment It discusses many of the non technical issues that influence effectiveness and sustainability of greywater use It also takes a hard look at economic issues arguing that more clarity and consistency from policymakers is essential if low income water stressed communities are to make better and safer use of their existing water supplies The book concludes by offering suggestions for where donor efforts and research could best be focused in the near future Greywater use in the Middle East is important reading for researchers donors implementing agencies and policymakers in the fields of water
