Prosperity, Region, and Institutions in Maritime China Billy K.L. So,2020-03-23 Prosperity signifies success in economic performance Economic performance always takes place in a spatial context And institutions matter in economic performance These three interwoven themes underlie this inquiry into the regional economy of southern Fukien province during the Sung and Yuan dynasties when the area was one of the most prosperous regions in China Through a meticulous reading of the sources the author seeks to understand the meaning of prosperity in the premodern Chinese context and argues that we have to understand economic performance as a process occurring in space and influenced by institutions which affect economic actors particularly through the means of transaction costs

Remaking the Chinese City Joseph W. Esherick,2001-10-31 In China today skyscrapers tower over ancient temples freeways deliver lines of cars and tour buses to imperial palaces cinema houses compete with old theaters featuring Peking Opera The disparity evidenced in the contemporary Chinese cityscape can be traced to the early decades of the twentieth century when government elites sought to transform cities into a new world that would be at once modern and distinctly Chinese Remaking the Chinese City aims to capture the full diversity of recent Chinese urbanism by examining the modernist transformations of China's cities in the first half of the twentieth century Collecting in one place some of the most interesting and exciting new work on Chinese urban history this volume presents thirteen essays discussing ten Chinese cities the commercial and industrial center of Shanghai the old capital Beijing the southern coastal city of Canton the interior's Chengdu the tourist city of Hangzhou the utopian New Capital built in Manchuria during the Japanese occupation the treaty port of Tianjin the Nationalists capital in Nanjing and temporary wartime capitals of Wuhan and Chongqing Unlike past treatments of early twentieth century China which characterize the period as one of failure and decay the contributors to this volume describe an exciting world in constant and fundamental change During this time the Chinese city was remade to accommodate parks and police paved roads and public spaces Rickshaws trolleys and buses allowed the growth of new downtowns Department stores theaters newspapers and modern advertising nourished a new urban identity Sanitary regulations and traffic laws were enforced and modern media and transport permitted unprecedented freedoms Yet despite their fondness for things Western and modern early urban planners envisioned cities that would lead the Chinese nation and preserve Chinese tradition The very desire for modernity led to the construction of a visible and accessible national past and the imagining of a distinctive national future In their investigation of the national capitals of the period the essays show how cities were reshaped to represent and serve the nation To promote tourism traditions were invented and recycled for the pleasure and edification of new middle class and foreign consumers of culture Abundantly illustrated with maps and photographs Remaking the Chinese City presents the best and most current scholarship on modern Chinese cities Its thoroughness and detailed scholarship will appeal to the specialist while its clarity and scope will engage the general reader Contributors Michael Tsin on Canton Ruth Rogaski and Brett Sheehan on Tianjin David Buck on Changchun Kristin Stapleton on Chengdu Liping Wang on Hangzhou Madeleine Dong on Beijing Charles Musgrove on Nanjing Stephen MacKinnon on Wuhan Lee MacIsaac on Chongqing and Jeffrey Wasserstrom and David Strand with concluding essays

Revolution and Rebellion in the Early Modern World Jack A. Goldstone,1991-04-02 What can the great crises of the past teach us about contemporary revolutions Arguing from an exciting and original perspective Goldstone suggests that great revolutions were the product of ecological crises that occurred when inflexible political economic and social institutions were overwhelmed by the cumulative pressure of population growth on limited available resources Moreover he contends that the causes of the great revolutions of Europe the English and French revolutions were similar to those of the great rebellions of Asia which shattered dynasties in Ottoman Turkey China and Japan The author observes that revolutions and rebellions have more often produced a crushing state orthodoxy than liberal institutions leading to the conclusion that perhaps it is vain to expect revolution to bring democracy and economic progress Instead contends Goldstone the path to these goals must begin with respect for individual liberty rather than authoritarian movements of national liberation Arguing that the threat of revolution is still with us Goldstone urges us to heed the lessons of the past He sees in the United States a repetition of the behavior patterns that have led to internal decay and international decline in the past a situation calling for new leadership and careful attention to the balance between our consumption and our resources Meticulously researched forcefully argued and strikingly original Revolutions and Rebellions in the Early Modern World is a tour de force by a brilliant young scholar It is a book that will surely engender much discussion and debate Fortune-tellers and Philosophers Richard J values bemoaned exploitation and imagined their sexuality largely in order to cope with their low social status Through studying the Sichuan boatmen we gain an insight into the ways in which twentieth century nonindustrial Chinese workers imagined their place in the society and appropriated without challenging them the traditional values Development Centre Studies Chinese Economic Performance in the Long Run, 960-2030 AD, Second Edition, Revised and Updated Maddison Angus,2007-09-28 This book uses a comparative approach to explain why China's role in the world economy has changed so dramatically in the last thousand years This edition has been revised and updated and Chapter 4 is new It concludes that China will resume its role as the world's largest economy by 2015 Urban Networks in Ch'ing China and Tokugawa Japan Gilbert Rozman,2015-03-08 Ch'ing China and Tokugawa Japan were unusually urbanized premodern societies where about one half of the world's urban population lived as late as 1800 Gilbert Rozman has drawn on both sociology and history to develop original methods of illuminating the historical urbanization of China and Japan and to provide a way of relating urban patterns to other characteristics of social structure in premodern societies The author also hopes to redirect the analysis of premodern societies into areas where China and Japan can be compared with each other and with other large scale societies The author divides central places into seven levels and determines how many levels were present in each country century by century Through this method he is able to demonstrate how Japan was rapidly narrowing China's lead in urbanization and show that Japan was relatively efficient in concentrating resources in high level cities Explanations for differences in urban concentration are sought in a general discussion of the social structure of each country an analysis of marketing patterns a detailed study of Chihli province and the Kant region an examination of regional variations and a comparison of Peking and Edo which were probably the world's largest cities throughout the eighteenth century Originally published in 1974 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 The Highlanders of Central China Jerome Ch'ên,1992 Examining the importance of regional differences in China's history this text details the social economic and political conditions of the central highlands at the end of the 19th century and the early part of the 20th Thus the nature and development of modern Chinese rural society is studied Christianity in Modern China David Cheung,2004 This monograph studies a significant episode in Chinese Christianity Focusing on the origins of Protestantism in South Fujian it investigates the evolution of the churches which pioneered in indigenization and ecclesiastical union in China during the 19th century China's Cultural Heritage Richard J Smith,1994-07-20 Based on the author's careful rethinking of certain themes and arguments presented in the first edition this revised version of China's Cultural Heritage also draws heavily upon the enormous body of new scholarship on
