Population Growth and Family Change in Africa, 1968      Population Growth and Family Change in Africa John Charles Caldwell, 1977      Reproduction and Social Context in Sub-Saharan Africa Samuel Agyei-Mensah, John B.

Casterline, 2003-06-30 Perhaps no region matches sub Saharan Africa in its social and cultural diversity In this collection of micro demographic studies the authors examine how the diversity of this region influences reproductive behavior The empirical studies distributed throughout the continent are localized in depth studies that give special attention to contextual effects of social structure and social organization A diverse range of topics is addressed including adolescent sexuality and the effects of early childbearing on later fertility the impact of development programs on fertility and the association between social organization social diffusion and reproductive regime Highly revealing of the determinants of reproduction in Africa these studies serve as a model for a new mode of demographic research The chapters are arranged by geographical regions of the continent with an introductory chapter outlining the editors vision of a micro demographic enterprise and a concluding chapter placing the African fertility transition in the context of the global fertility transition This volume inspires fresh thinking and theorizing about demographic change not only in sub Saharan Africa but also in all low income settings

Population Studies: Key Issues and Contemporary Trends in Ghana Badasu, Delali Margaret, Kwankye, Stephen Owusu, 2014-09-01 The scope of Population Studies as a discipline has expanded beyond its traditional focus on the three components of population and their dynamics fertility mortality and migration It encompasses broader themes including reproductive health and rights gender and other social and cultural dimensions of population dynamics human development and health and climate change Population is central to development and its integration into the development planning of every country is critical This volume of the University of Ghana Readers by the Regional Institute for Population Studies RIPS provides multi disciplinary perspectives on the multi faceted nature of population studies today The volume is an essential resource on contemporary issues on population studies and offers a unique opportunity for students of population studies and others who are interested in the study of human populations to enhance their understanding of the ramifications of population dynamics on development It also has rich material on demographic research methods and provides tools for building the research capacity of academics and technocrats who are interested in population driven interventions advocacy and policy      Law and the Family in Africa Simon A. Roberts, 2019-07-08 No detailed description available for Law and the Family in Africa      The Economics of Population Growth Julian Lincoln Simon, 2019-04-23 Comparison with stationary and very fast rates of population growth shows modern population growth to have long run positive effects on the standards of living This is Julian Simon's contention and he provides support for its validity in both more and less developed countries He notes that since each person constitutes a burden in the short run whether population growth is judged good or bad depends on the importance the short run is accorded relative to the long run The author first analyzes empirical data formulating his conclusions using simulation models He then reviews our knowledge of the effect of economic level upon population growth A final section of his book considers the framework of welfare economics and values within which population policy decisions are now made He finds that the implications of policy decisions can prove inconsistent with the values that prompt their recommendation Originally published in 1977 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

The Global Family Planning Revolution Warren C. Robinson, John A. Ross, 2007 The striking upsurge in population growth rates in developing countries at the close of World War II gained force during the next decade From the 1950s to the 1970s scholars and advocacy groups publicized the trend and drew troubling conclusions about its economic and ecological implications Private educational and philanthropic organizations government and international organizations joined in the struggle to reduce fertility Three decades later this movement has seen changes beyond anyone's most optimistic dreams and global demographic stabilization is expected in this century The Global Family Planning Revolution preserves the remarkable record of this success Its editors and authors offer more than a historical record They discuss important lessons for current and future initiatives of the international community Some programs succeeded while others initially failed and the analyses provide valuable guidance for emerging health related policy objectives and responses to global challenges

The Family in Africa Man Singh Das, 1993 The Family in Africa is a valuable source book It introduces the reader to the effect of industrialisation urbanization and modernization on African society and consequent changes in family structure marriage institution with relationship sex role and lifestyle in third world countries especially in Nigeria Somalia Tanzania Swaziland and Libya

Rapid Population Growth in Sub-Saharan Africa Rashid Faruquee,Ravi Gulhati,1983 Substantial social and economic progress in sub Saharan Africa during the past 15 years has not altered the traditional regime of very high fertility Explanations for this paradox have to turn to broad societal characteristics not captured by multivariate analysis of the household level The search for physical survival promotes a very large family norm High fertility may also reflect the predicament of the African woman This paper argues that enough is known to provide a reliable basis for policies aimed at reducing fertility The case for such policies rests on evidence that the challenge posed by accelerating population growth in Africa has not elicited a commensurate response in the form of technological or organizational progress Instead growing population numbers have accentuated the food deficit magnified the budgetary problem of financing basic needs services and complicated the employment issue The paper projects future population growth of nine sample countries accounting for two thirds of Africa s total population on the basis of four sets of assumptions These exercises confirm the desirability of action by African governments to reduce fertility

Africa, Growth Renewed, Hope Rekindled ,1992 Female and Male in West Africa Christine Oppong,2023-03-31 In the 1970s and early 1980s there was a lack of contemporary readily available studies of the informal relationships between the sexes their day to day activities and expectations and how these were altering especially in contexts in which there were radical demographic political and economic changes taking place Originally published in 1983 this volume documents the complexities and subtleties of the modes of interaction between women and men in one region of Africa It seeks to provide insights and understanding of changing social contexts and relationships based upon ethnographic field work carried out in the previous decade There are five sections The first is comparative presenting and analysing statistical data from the countries of the region including demographic profiles of fertility migration mortality as well as census and survey evidence on work patterns and education It provides the broad framework within which the individual case studies are located The theme of the first set of case studies is the traditional separation and interconnectedness apparent in the worlds of women and men in several culture areas in the spheres of arts and crafts music political roles language symbolism ritual domestic organization and resources and sexuality The second set focuses on the theme of domestic cooperation and conflict in production and consumption in particular the conflicting claims and expectations of men and women as spouses and kin The third set of essays is concerned with the relative resources and opportunities of females and males in schools and employment contexts in sexual encounters and in national community and domestic decision making processes The subjects of the final section include individualism autonomy and dependence of the members of one sex upon the other The increased individualism resulting from migration and the scattering of kin and the breakdown of cooperative work patterns between spouses and relatives is seen as leading to instances of both increased dependence on the one hand especially of women on men and increased opportunities for economic autonomy on the other The case studies span a wide range of socio economic conditions including studies of farmers traders fishermen and fishmongers factory and office workers the relatively rich and the relatively poor from many different ethnic groups and six countries The book was expected to be of interest to a wide range of readers in social science disciplines as well as to planners and administrators It should still prove to be particularly relevant to the needs of university students in the fields of women s studies African studies Black studies sex roles family relations sociology and anthropology

Sustainable Development and Human Security in Africa Louis A. Picard,Terry F. Buss,Taylor B. Seybolt,Macrina C. Lelei,2015-04-22 Many new development initiatives have been introduced in Africa over the past few decades Each of these has been heralded as marking a new era in the continent s development However many of these initiatives have failed to produce sustained results due to numerous challenges including most importantly the lack of good governance The Africa P

Fertility, Conjuncture, Difference Philip Kreager,Astrid Bochow,2017-09-01 In the last forty years anthropologists have made major contributions to understanding the heterogeneity of reproductive trends and processes underlying them Fertility transition rather than the story of the triumphant spread of Western birth control rationality reveals a diversity of reproductive means and ends continuing before during and after transition This collection brings together anthropological case studies placing them in a comparative framework of compositional demography and conjunctural action The volume addresses major issues of inequality and distribution which shape population and social structures and in which fertility trends and the formation and size of families are not decided solely or primarily by reproduction

Population Change in Europe, the Middle-East and North Africa Koenraad Matthijs,Karel Neels,Christiane Timmerman,Jacques Haers,2016-12-05 Current demographic trends raise new questions challenges and controversies Comparing demographic trends in Europe and the NAME region North Africa and the Middle East this book demonstrates how population change interacts with changing economic landscapes social distinctions and political realities A variety of drivers contribute to demographic change in the various regions and countries considered such as family policies economic realities the impact of educational differentials and the attitudes towards marriage On the macro level the new trends are restructuring the age composition of populations and are reshaping the life courses of individuals and families In turn the impact demographic forces have on the organisation of labour markets on fiscal policies on the care of the elderly on migration flows and on political changes can be quite radical Chapter 1 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 3 0 license https://s3.us-west-2.amazonaws.com/tandfbis-rt/files/docs/Open Access Chapters

The Demographic Transition and Development in Africa Charles Teller,Assefa Hailemariam,2011-03-04 The heated Malthusian Bosrupian debates still rage over consequences of high population growth rapid urbanization dense rural populations and young age structures in the face of drought poverty food insecurity environmental degradation climate change instability and the global economic crisis However while facile generalizations about the lack of demographic change and lack of progress in meeting the MDGs in sub Saharan Africa are commonplace they are often misleading and belie the socio cultural change that is occurring among a vanguard of more educated youth Even within Ethiopia the second largest country at the Crossroads of Africa and the Middle East different narratives emerge from analysis of longitudinal micro level analysis as to how demographic change and responses are occurring some more rapidly than others The book compares Ethiopia with other Africa countries and demonstrates the uniqueness of an African type demographic transition a combination of poverty related negative factors unemployment disease food insecurity along with positive education health and higher age of marriage trends that are pushing this ruggedly rural and land locked population to accelerate the demographic transition and stay on track to meet most of the MDGs This book takes great care with the challenges of inadequate data and weak analytical capacity to research this incipient transition trying to unravel some of the complexities in this vulnerable Horn of Africa country A slowly declining population growth rates with rapidly declining child mortality very high chronic under nutrition already low urban fertility but still very high rural fertility and high population resource pressure along with rapidly growing small urban places
