Population In The Arab World Problems Prospects:

Population in the Arab World Abdel R. Omran, 1980 Future Demographic Challenges in the Arab World Anne Goujon, Bilal Barakat, 2010-02-18

The Arab region is often perceived in terms of its negatives rather than its achievements. The cradle of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam is nowadays mostly discussed in the context of problems related to rising religious fundamentalism, political instability due in part to the Arab-Israeli conflict, or the persistent low status of women. The first Arab Human Development Report listed three deficits impeding human advancement in Arab countries: these were knowledge acquisition and effective utilization, human rights, freedom, and good governance, and women's empowerment. The demographic perspective on the Arab region again has tended to focus on the negative, with most studies ranging from uncontrollable immigration to untamable high fertility. Our perspective will first of all examine the differences in terms of demographic paths existing in the 22 countries that make up the Arab world, as well as any convergence occurring at different levels. While the notion that there is a unique and unchanging demographic pattern that is specifically Arab—one of universally high fertility that does not decline—is no longer tenable, the countries in the region are sufficiently similar to each other and distinct from their neighbors to be meaningfully discussed together. This is not to lose sight of the fact that modernity, cultural openness, the relations between men and women, the effects of economic crisis, and of development all vary from one sub-population to another in North Africa and the Middle East as elsewhere in the world. The population projections by the United Nations Population Division essentially assume that fertility will steadily decline in the Arab region as it has elsewhere in the world. In the medium term, despite secular trends in declining fertility and mortality, there will in some respects be even greater demographic heterogeneity in the Arab region than is currently the case. As a result of this heterogeneity, the challenges posed by demographic change in the Arab region are more diverse than the attention to youth bulges suggests. It should not distract from the fact that a large number of Arab countries in the GCC area, the Mashreq, and North Africa will within one generation already enter a phase characterized by progressive population ageing. Because of the rapid future growth in the number of elderly, the overall dependency ratio in the GCC area and Arab North Africa as a whole will, despite falling fertility, not drop much below current levels. This throws an underappreciated light on the problem of very low participation rates in the labor market. Increasing economic opportunities for today's youth are not just imperative to meet their own current needs for transitioning to productive and fully adult members of society, but also to ensure future sustainability.

Minorities in the Middle East Mordechai Nisan, 2015-10-02

The struggle for independence by minorities in the Middle East—those people who are non-Arab or non-Muslim—is affecting the political climate around the world. War and terrorism are threatening the safety of many minority communities, and repression of minorities still remains standard state policy in some countries. This updated and revised edition of the 1991 original provides a wealth of historical and political detail for all the indigenous peoples of the Middle East. Pressed to persist in a threatening environment, these minorities

Kurds Berbers Baluchi Druzes Alawites Armenians Assyrians Maronites Sudanese Christians Jews Egyptian Copts and others share similar experiences and have been known to cooperate for shared goals Important events and new trends regarding the welfare of these groups are covered and numerous oral histories add to the new edition Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

Oil and Development in the Arab Gulf States Walid I. Sharif,2023-10-12 Oil and Development in the Arab Gulf States 1985 brings together in one volume the manifold sources of information on the Arab Gulf region especially the impact of oil revenues on its economic political and social development It provides a balanced core of primary and secondary sources on various aspects of the economics of Arab oil between 1973 and 1983

Urban Development in the Muslim World Hooshang Amirahmadi,2017-09-08 War and revolution have focused the world s attention on the Middle East Despite the headlines the editors of this book state the economic political and cultural aspects of urban life in the Muslim world are hardly known to us Contributors to this volume explore urban problems urban development and the practice of urban planning in the Muslim world In both comprehensive analyses and detailed case studies the contributors address the basic dilemma of development planning how to integrate the force of tradition with the demands of modernity Specifically some of the topics covered include the examination of the idea of a uniquely Islamic city the influence of Islam on the medinas of Tunisia and Morocco and on the development of Mecca and Delhi and reconciling tradition and modernism in Tehran Also covered are the comparative development of Sana a and Cairo the influence of oil on urbanization in the Persian Gulf urban growth in Syria and an overview of urban planning in the Arab world This compendium is essential for specialists and students of the region for international planning and development practitioners and for those seeking insight into the complexities of this important but arguably least understood region of the world

Reproductive Health and Infectious Disease in the Middle East Robin Barlow,Joseph W. Brown,2018-10-26 First published in 1998 this book covers a variety of health issues in the contemporary Middle east Its thirteen chapters contributed by a total of 23 authors and co authors reflect several different disciplines relevant for health studies including epidemiology economics and anthropology In the field of reproductive health there are chapters on maternal health indicators fertility infertility and the utilization of family planning services In the field of infectious disease there are chapters on schistosomiasis HIV AIDS hepatitis C and Rift Valley Fever Several different parts of the Middle East and North Africa are covered including Tunisia Egypt Israel Palestine and Lebanon Problems of reproductive health and infectious disease in the region are seen to be more serious than generally recognised There are significant cultural and political obstacles in both areas A particular need is for greater empowerment of women as both clients and providers within the health care systems

Education in the Arab Gulf States and the Arab World Nagat El-Sanabary,1992 This annotated guide of English language material on education in the Arab world includes books journal articles national and international reports and documents and Ph D dissertations The author opens with an introductory essay on the development of education in the Arab Gulf states and an analysis of current issues in educational research Chapters cover the social context of education educational systems and structures country reports on educational developments between 1950 and 1980 religion and education education at the pre college level and higher education with special attention to systems and institutions curriculum and evaluation management students in national and foreign universities research sciences and technology The book also examines women s education teachers and teacher education educational planning manpower and education educational guidance and counseling special education literacy and adult education and educational media and instructional technology Author and subject indexes are provided State ,1984 Poor Places, Thriving People World Bank,2011-01-10 Geographical differences in living standards are a pressing concern for policymakers in the Middle East and North Africa MENA Economies of agglomeration mean that production is most efficient when concentrated in leading areas So how can the region reduce spatial disparities in well being without compromising growth The solution to spatial disparities lies in matching the policy package to a lagging area s specific characteristics Key questions include is the lagging area problem really as serious as one thinks is it a problem of low economic opportunity or of poor human development are lagging area populations close enough to agglomerations to benefit from spillovers and is there manifest private investor interest Drawing on the World Bank s 2009 World Development Report Reshaping Economic Geography the book proposes 3 policy packages First all lagging areas can benefit from a level playing field for development and investment in people Geographic disparities in the policy environment are a legacy of MENA s history and gaps in human development are a major component of spatial disparities Smart policies for the investment environment health education social transfers and urban development can therefore close spatial gaps in living standards Second lagging areas that are close to economic agglomeration can benefit from spillovers provided that they are connected MENA s expenditure priority is not necessarily long distance primary connections but infrastructure maintenance and short distance connections such as rural roads and peri urban networks Public private partnerships can also bring electronic connectivity to lagging areas Third shifting regional development policy away from spatial subsidies towards the facilitation of cluster based growth will increase the chance of cost effective impacts The final chapter of the book examines the institutional prerequisites for effective spatial policy It argues that MENA s centralized sectoral structures are not always adapted to governments spatial development agendas and describes alternative institutional options Asian and African Studies meisai.org.il, Mobilizing Human Resources in the Arab World (RLE Economy of Middle East) R. Paul Shaw,2015-05-15 R Paul Shaw has travelled widely in the Arab world obtaining data and gathering impressions first hand from national and local planners In this book he identifies population and manpower problems that are likely to become more serious and more difficult to solve if they are neglected at this early stage of Arab development He focuses on five broad areas which are directly or indirectly related to mobilizing human resources and his book will be of special interest to all those who are concerned with such issues as population migration employment inequality the emancipation of women construction and agriculture Dr Shaw proposes policy directives which are sensitive to the problems as they are seen by the Arab governments themselves and sets out practical guidelines which can be used by Arab planners and policy makers An important feature of the book with respect to current literature on Arab development is that it moves away from a preoccupation with growth related investments to a concentration on development related population manpower and employment issues By bringing together such comprehensive empirical and bibliographic information it will also be invaluable as a reference source for some twenty Arab countries First published in 1983 Middle East: Tricontinental Hub United States. Department of the Army,1965 Middle East: Tricontinental Hub: A strategic survey United States. Department of the Army,1965 Breaking the Barriers to Higher Economic Growth Mustapha Kamel Nabli,2007-01-01 The world s attention to the countries of the Middle East and North Africa MENA region has often been dominated by headline issues conflict sanctions political turmoil and rising oil prices Little of this international attention has considered the broad range of development challenges facing this diverse group of countries Breaking the Barriers reflects the collected thinking of the World Bank s Office of the Chief Economist for the MENA Region on the long term development challenges facing the region and the reform priorities and strategies for effectively meeting these challenges It Middle East, the Strategic Hub Army Library (U.S.),1978 The Palestinian Economy (RLE Economy of Middle East) George T. Abed,2015-05-15 This volume brings together the results of the symposium on Economic Development under Prolonged Occupation held at Oxford University in January 1986 The basic aim of the symposium was to stimulate research and discussion on issues of economic development by a prolonged occupation It brought together a number of development economists representatives from development assistance organisations and other individuals engaged in one facet or another of social and economic development in the occupied areas The papers presented here reflect the wide range of thought on the issues surrounding the Palestinian Economy
