Official Portraits and Unofficial Counterportraits of At Risk Students Richard J. Meyer, 2010-01-15 This book chronicles 5th and 6th grade writers children of gang members drug users poor people and non documented and documented immigrants in a rural school in the southwest US coming into their voices cultivating those voices and using those voices in a variety of venues beginning with the classroom community and spreading outward At the heart of this book is the cultivation of tension between official and unofficial portraits of these students Official portraits are composed of demographic data socioeconomic data and test results Unofficial counterportraits offer different views of children schools and communities The big ideas of official and unofficial portraits are presented then each chapter offers data the children s and teachers processes and products and facets of the theoretical construct of counterportraits as a response to official portraits The counterportraits are built slowly in order to base them in evidence and to articulate their complexity Many teachers and soon to be teachers facing the dilemmas and complexities of teaching in diverse classrooms have serious questions about how to honor students lives outside of school making school more relevant This book offers evidence to present to the public legislators and the press as a way of talking back to official portraits demonstrating that officially failing schools are not really failing evidence that is crucial for the survival of public schools A Sociological Portrait of the

Homeless Population in a Moderate Sized City James E. Floyd,1995

Homelessness Cameron Parsell,2023-09-14

Homelessness is a punishing condition that inflicts unquestionable harm on those who experience it It is also a social problem that starkly lays bare deep societal failure As Cameron Parsell shows society along with the public policy measures intended to address it treats being homeless as an identity casting those who experience homelessness as fundamentally different from us To be homeless is to face daily victimization to be a recipient of someone else s care and to have autonomy taken away Parsell argues that we have at our disposal the knowledge and momentum to demonstrably reduce and even end homelessness Our first task is to confront the fact that homelessness is a relatively predictable phenomenon that disproportionately impacts people who are failed by society in myriad ways We must respond to the problem in ways that understand and thus do not recreate the dehumanizing conditions experienced by those who are homeless Homelessness is a choice of how we organize society Sketching the defining features of homelessness this critical introduction will be a valuable resource for students studying homelessness housing marginality and poverty across the social sciences and social work

2008 Annual Homelessness Assessment ,2010-10 Provides year to year trend info that explores changes in the patterns of homelessness over time Focuses on two types of national estimates of homelessness Point in time estimates provide the total number of sheltered and un sheltered homeless persons on a single night in January Also provides one year estimates of the total sheltered population The one year estimates account for persons who used a homeless residential program at any time during a 12 month period The report compares one year estimates for 2007 and 2008 This report comes at a time of economic uncertainty and provides a few early indicators of how the economic downturn may be affecting the housing situation of low income and vulnerable Americans Illus

Multiple Barriers Alison Smith,2022-06-29 Despite decades of efforts to combat homelessness many people continue to experience it in Canada s major cities There are a number of barriers that prevent effective responses to homelessness including a lack of agreement on the fundamental question what is homelessness In Multiple Barriers Alison Smith explores the forces that shape intergovernmental and multilevel governance dynamics to help better understand why despite the best efforts of community and advocacy groups homelessness remains as persistent as ever Drawing on nearly 100 interviews with key actors in Vancouver Calgary Toronto and Montreal as well as extensive participant observation Smith argues that institutional differences across cities interact with ideas regarding homelessness to contribute to very different models of governance Multiple Barriers shows that the genuine involvement of locally based service providers with the development of policy are necessary for an effective equitable and enduring solution to the homelessness crisis in Canada

Telling My Story... at the Edge of Recovery Mara Jevera Fulmer,2006-06 This art exhibition catalog accompanies Telling My Story at the Edge of Recovery from Homelessness an art exhibition and educational forum that explores the journey of recovery by eight older African American women from homelessness in Detroit It combines the creation of conceptual portraits by international artist writer scholar Mara Jevera Fulmer with research activities by Drs Olivia G M Washington and David P Moxley and the TMS participants personal perspectives and captured issues in their own words and frames of reference As a result it is hoped that it will lead to a greater understanding of the serious nature of this social problem in the United States as well as to developing potential solutions and approaches to its prevention

Representing Homelessness Owen Clayton,2021-11-04 Representing Homelessness analyses the representation and self representation of homelessness The volume features research from the Arts Humanities Sciences and the Social Sciences as well as writings by people with lived experience of homelessness

Homeless in Las Vegas Kurt Borchard,2011-04-28 The homeless men and women represented in this book speak candidly about their plight its origins and the many obstacles to escaping it They discuss the unique challenges and opportunities that Las Vegas s focus on tourism indulgence and diversion offers its homeless residents This compelling and emotionally charged ethnography counters many of the stereotypes of homeless men and women revealing the remarkable diversity of their circumstances It also offers their perspectives on social services and civic attitudes toward homelessness

The Routledge Handbook of Global Perspectives on Homelessness, Law & Policy Chris Bevan,2024-06-06 This handbook provides a comprehensive global survey and assessment of the law and policy relating to homelessness prevention Homelessness is regarded internationally as one of the most pressing issues facing humanity and one of the greatest social challenges of our times This has been further amplified as a result of the Covid 19 pandemic Across the globe there is an enormous divergence in both experiences of and responses to homelessness from governments and state actors This handbook examines how different jurisdictions from across all five continents of the world have encountered framed and responded to homelessness Written by expert scholars and leaders in their field the book engages in a multidisciplinary and comparative analysis of homelessness as an issue of acute social concern Understandings of homelessness are geographically culturally and historically situated making analysis of each jurisdiction s approach by a national expert deeply insightful The collection examines legal and extra legal policy interventions targeted at reducing or preventing homelessness from across the globe Drawing on diverse perspectives differing cultures and welfare regimes it thus constitutes a timely evaluation of current approaches to homelessness internationally This book will appeal to students and scholars of homelessness sociology social policy anthropology and urban sociology as well as international and national policymakers

2009 Annual Homeless Assessment Alvaro Cortes,2011 This is a print on demand edition of a hard to find publication Provides year to year trend information that explores changes in the patterns of homelessness over time This year s Annual Assessment Report AHAR is delivered at a critical moment as the Federal government continues to shift its focus toward preventing homelessness and on the eve of the first ever federal plan to end homelessness The 2009 AHAR captures a large portion of the economic crisis in its reporting period It provides real evidence that the economic downturn is impacting the housing stability of low income and vulnerable Americans as we see a rise in family homelessness for the second consecutive year This year s report allows for a comparative analysis of homelessness that spans three years 2007 2008 and 2009      The Homeless Christopher Jencks, 1994 Late in the 1970s Americans began to notice more people sleeping in public places and wandering the streets By the late 1980s the homeless were everywhere a grim reminder of America's social and economic troubles Renowned social analyst Jencks discusses the causes and extent of this problem and what can be done about it Line illustrations and tables      Nowhere to Call Home Leah Denbok, 2017-11-13 I invite you to look into the eyes of the homeless they tell a story Homelessness is a serious problem throughout North America even in Canada and the United States two of the richest countries in the world We must stop this madness says Leah Denbok the teenage Canadian photographer who travelled with her dad for over two years to cities throughout North America photographing and interviewing the homeless Leah was inspired by the story of her mother who at three years old was rescued from the streets of Calcutta by Saint Teresa formerly Mother Teresa Nowhere to Call Home is a collection of gritty black and white photographs and the personal stories of individuals who live on the streets The haunting beauty of the images will stay with you long after you turn the last page All the profits from the sale of this book will go to the Salvation Army Barrie Bayside Mission Centre      Transitional Programs for Homeless Women with Children Judy K. Flohr, 2013-10-28 First published in 1999 Family homelessness is one of the most profound and disturbing social problems of the 1990s and will be one of the most important issues facing the United States in the twenty first century The main purpose of this study was to develop a transitional program framework that can assist homeless women with children to become self sufficient In order to create this framework this study identified current program areas and components in transitional programs for homeless women with children including education and employment training components and determined which program areas and components of current programs have a relationship to programs with successful outcomes

Housing the Homeless Jon Erickson, Charles Wilhelm, 2017-07-12 Homelessness has become a lasting issue of vital social concern As the number of the homeless has grown the complexity of the issue has become increasingly clear to researchers and private and public service providers The plight of the homeless raises many ethical anthropological political sociological and public health questions The most serious and perplexing of these questions is what steps private charitable and public organizations can take to alleviate and eventually solve the problem The concept of homelessness is difficult to define and measure Generally persons are thought to be homeless if they have no permanent residence and seek security rest and protection from the elements The homeless typically live in areas that are not designed to be shelters e.g. parks bus terminals under bridges in cars occupy structures without permission e.g. squatters or are provided emergency shelter by a public or private agency Some definitions of homelessness include persons living on a short term basis in single room occupancy hotels or motels or temporarily residing in social or health service facilities without a permanent address Housing the Homeless is a collection of case studies that bring together a variety of perspectives to help develop a clear understanding of the homelessness problem The editors include information on the background and politics of the problem and descriptions of the current homeless population The book concludes with a resource section which highlights governmental policies and programs established to deal with the problem of homelessness
