Strecker,Stephen A. Tyler,2009 While some scholars have said that there is no such thing as culture and have urged to abandon the concept altogether the contributors to this volume overcome this impasse by understanding cultures and their representations for what they ultimately are rhetorical constructs These senior international scholars explore the complex relationships between culture and rhetoric arguing that just as rhetoric is founded in culture culture is founded in rhetoric This intersection constitutes the central theme of the first part of the book while the second is dedicated to the study of figuration as a common ground of rhetoric and anthropology The book offers a compelling range of theoretical reflections historical vistas and empirical investigations which aim to show how people talk themselves and others into particular modalities of thought and action and how rhetoric and culture in this way are co emergent It thus turns a new page in the history of academic discourse by bringing two disciplines anthropology and rhetoric together in a way that has never been done before Publisher s website

Rhetorical Adaptation in the Greek Historians, Josephus, and Acts vol.I John M. Duncan,2022-10-24 Greco Roman rhetorical theorists insist that speakers must adapt their speeches to their audiences in order to maximize persuasiveness and minimize alienation Ancient historians adorn their narratives with accounts of attempts at such rhetorical adaptation the outcomes of which decisively impact the subsequent course of events These depictions of speaker audience interactions moreover convey crucial didactic persuasive insights to the historians own audiences This monograph presents a detailed comparative analysis of the intra and extra textual functions of speeches and audience responses in Greek historiography Josephus and Acts with special emphasis on Luke s distinctive depiction of the apostles as adaptable yet frequently alienating orators This is volume I of a set of two volumes

The Rhetoric of Jesus in the Gospel of Mark Michael Strickland,David M. Young,2017-11-15 Young and Strickland analyze the four largest discourses of Jesus in Mark in the context of Greco Roman rhetoric in an attempt to hear them as a first century audience would have heard them The authors demonstrate that contrary to what some historical critics have suggested first century audiences of Mark would have found the discourses of Jesus unified well integrated and persuasive They also show how these speeches of the Markan Jesus contribute to Mark s overall narrative accomplishments

Words and Music J. G. Williamson, 2005-07-01 Word and music studies is a relatively young discipline that has nonetheless generated a substantial amount of work Recent studies in the field have embraced music in literature word music formal parallels to music in literature verbal music music and literature vocal music and literature in music programme music Other positions have been defined in which song exists as an analysable category distinct from words and music and requiring its own grammar Much of the literature has tended to focus on readings of the literary text pushing theoretical and analytical concerns in music to one side a trend that is as apparent among musicologists as among literary historians The essays presented here from the third Liverpool Music Symposium seek accordingly to redress this situation Contributors tackle the study of words and music from a number of standpoints examining artists as diverse as

Eminem Patti Smith and Arnold Schoenberg That Tyrant, Persuasion J. E. Lendon, 2024-12-17 How rhetorical training influenced deeds as well as words in the Roman Empire The assassins of Julius Caesar cried out that they had killed a tyrant and days later their colleagues in the Senate proposed rewards for this act of tyrannicide The killers and their supporters spoke as if they were following a well known script They were Their education was chiefly in rhetoric and as boys they would all have heard and given speeches on a ubiquitous set of themes including one asserting that he who kills a tyrant shall receive a reward from the city In That Tyrant Persuasion J E Lendon explores how rhetorical education in the Roman world influenced not only the words of literature but also momentous deeds the killing of Julius Caesar what civic buildings and monuments were built what laws were made and ultimately how the empire itself should be run Presenting a new account of Roman rhetorical education and its surprising practical consequences That Tyrant Persuasion shows how rhetoric created a grandiose imaginary world for the Roman ruling elite and how they struggled to force the real world to conform to it Without rhetorical education the Roman world would have been unimaginably different Reading Republican Oratory Christa Gray, Andrea Balbo, Richard M. A. Marshall, Catherine E. W. Steel, 2018-02-09 Public speech was a key aspect of politics in Republican Rome both in theory and in practice and recent decades have seen a surge in scholarly discussion of its significance and performance Yet the partial nature of the surviving evidence means that our understanding of its workings is dominated by one man whose texts are the only examples to have survived in complete form since antiquity Cicero This collection of essays aims to broaden our conception of the oratory of the Roman Republic by exploring how it was practiced by individuals other than Cicero whether major statesmen jobbing lawyers or exceptionally the wives of politicians It focuses particularly on the surviving fragments of such oratory with individual essays tackling the challenges posed both by the partial and often unreliable nature of the evidence about these other Roman orators often known to us chiefly through the tendentious observations of Cicero himself and the complex intersections of the written fragments and the oral phenomenon Collectively the essays are concerned with the methods by which we are able to reconstruct non Ciceronian oratory and the exploration of new ways of interpreting this evidence to tell us about the content context and delivery of those speeches They are arranged into two thematic Parts the first addressing questions of reception selection and transmission and the second those of reconstruction contextualization and interpretation together they represent a comprehensive overview of the non Ciceronian speeches that will be of use to all ancient historians philologists and literary classicists with an interest in the oratory of the Roman Republic The Invectives of Sallust and Cicero Anna Novokhatko, 2009-05-05 This work covers the history of the text of the invectives of Sallust against Cicero and of Cicero against Sallust Though these speeches seem unsophisticated to some they are in fact of considerable importance The question of the authenticity of both invectives especially of the invective against Cicero considered in the book diachronically has long troubled scholars commencing with Quintilian s quotation from the text as though it were authentic This dispute continues down to our own time In all probability both invectives are a product of the rhetorical schools of Rome as students at such schools might have been set the task of writing a speech against Cicero imitating Sallust or of responding to Sallust in the style of Cicero Thus we possess a sample of rhetorical school exercises preserved due to their similarities to the prototypes on which they were modelled The work covers the full manuscript tradition of the text and also the history of the changes which arose during its transmission the history of the printed text and the text itself with an apparatus criticus and also a translation This work should be of interest to classicists philologists interested in the history of medieval and renaissance texts and also to those erudite readers concerned with rhetorical style and the functioning of the rhetorical schools of Rome Words on Fire Rob

Goodman, 2021-12-16 Ranging from Cicero's Rome to contemporary politics Words on Fire is a provocative rethinking of political eloquence for our time
