were crushed by the prevailing Red Scare McCarthyism state and societal censorship and J Edgar Hoover's FBI. The teacher of Classroom 15 known fondly as Mr McFetridge assigned a pen pal project in an effort to take geography lessons outside of the classroom. Imagining a place as far from Oregon as they possibly could, the students wrote letters to nine and ten year old counterparts in the Soviet Union. Janice Boyle, the class secretary, reached out to Oregon's Congressional representative Charles O Porter seeking assistance connecting with peers in Russia. Representative Porter forwarded the letter to the Secretary of State Christian Herter and a week later the students received the shocking and disheartening news that their benign request had been needlessly denied. In the wake of McCarthyism, the Eisenhower administration subverted the assignment fearing Communist propaganda would infect the innocent minds of eager Oregon schoolchildren. The students' plight quickly gained national attention with stories running from the Roseburg News Review to the New York Times. The publicity didn't miss the attention of J Edgar Hoover's FBI. His agents investigated. They traveled to Roseburg, collected evidence and took it back to the Bureau's regional headquarters in Portland. The public reaction was swift and unrelenting. The teacher and the Congressman were attacked by outraged Roseburg citizens, the school board and enraged Americans across the country. Classroom 15 is all the above and a page turning adventure story told with the voices of the empowered, tenacious University of Oregon journalism students who took the nascent story and demonstrated their unwavering devotion to the journalistic process by telling the tale.

The New York Times Book Review: A man comes across a short story which recounts in minute detail his killing of a soldier long ago from the victim's point of view. It's a story that should not exist and whose author can only be a dead man. So begins the strange quest for its elusive writer Alexander Wolf. A singular classic. The Spectre of Alexander Wolf is a psychological thriller and existential inquiry into guilt and redemption, coincidence and fate, love and death.

Roach Jr., 2009-05-13 THE MIGHTY KUCHKA Teen prodigy NIKOLAI RIMSKY KORSAKOV is brought by his piano teacher to the home of composer and music instructor MILI BALAKRIEV antagonist who recognizes the talent of the young man immediately. Mili's quest is to intentionally deprive his pupils of the musical knowledge of Mozart, Beethoven, Bach, and Europeans in order that his circle of composers would write pure Russian Music without outside influence. After a tour with the Russian Navy to New York City, Rio de Janeiro, a few Mediterranean ports, Nikolai returns to St. Petersburg as a mature Naval Officer and rejoins Mili's circle of five composers which include MODEST MOUSSORGSKY, ALEXANDER BORODIN, and CAESAR CUI. After awhile, Modest, Alexander, and Nikolai realize they have been categorized as pupils by Mili and feel a certain coolness as they grow more independent. Nikolai has written his first two symphonies. Nikolai falls in love with NADEZHDA, a talented pianist; they get married and travel to many romantic spots in Europe on their honeymoon. Nadezhda is a wonderful influence on Nikolai's music. PETER TCHAIKOVSKI becomes their friend and visits the couple occasionally when in St. Petersburg. One day Nadezhda sees Nikolai in tears, claiming, "Everything I have composed is wrong. I have wasted my life with Mili Balakriev." Nikolai realizes that he has been deprived of the knowledge of the European Masters. Nikolai, feeling betrayed, suffers a complete nervous breakdown. Peter Tchaikovsky credits Nadezhda with nursing Nikolai back to health. Now stronger than ever, he completes more than 20 Operas. The Suites, Sheherazade, Easter Overture, Capriccio Espagnol are on repertoires around the world. Nikolai teaches his own group of pupils which include the younger ALEXANDER GLAZANOV and IGOR STRAVINSKY. At 23 years old, he was on top of the world, but something was missing from his life, and that something he thought he could never get back, that was until he noticed his brother's interest in a certain intriguing young woman that he could barely get a glimpse of. Every time he saw them together from a far, he'd find himself glued to her every movement, even something as small as the slight breeze blowing through her short curly hair. She wore shades most of the time, but he could never shake the feeling that for some reason, she was what he had been waiting for. The only problem was his little brother was growing attached to her, falling for her. Young Brandon Wells had often felt second best to his famous brother, that was until he met Len. Len was the type of girl that was down to earth, spoke her mind, and liked him for who he was, and not whom he was related to. That was quite refreshing for a young college student like Brandon Wells, who was always referred to by the female species as CJ Wells' cute little brother. Len was beautiful, sexy, and easy to talk to. He was really feeling her, but she was still stuck in the past, and he was determined to break through that wall.

and make her his future Braylen had left her heart in Chicago a long time ago and it hadn't beat since but why was it that every time Brandon's brother pulled up she felt a slight twitch of her heart something she hadn't felt in almost six years Why was it that every time she looked into Brandon's eyes she felt she was looking at someone else Braylen had to stay focused on her studies and making a better life for her and her young son She had no time for dates and wondering what lied in Brandon's eyes She knew Brandon was looking for more in their friendship but she didn't have anything else to give She felt guilty for stringing him along but truth be told she was lonely and he reminded her of someone someone she never forget and thought she never see again However life had other plans for her
