Savage And The Innocent

David Goldman

Savage And The Innocent:

The Savage and the Innocent David Maybury-Lewis, 1971 The Savage & the Innocent David Goldman, 2015 The Passive Eye Branka Arsić, 2003 The Passive Eye is a revolutionary and historically rich account of Berkeley's theory of vision. In this formidable work the author considers the theory of the embodied subject and its passions in light of a highly dynamic conception of infinity. Arsić shows the profound affinities between Berkeley and Spinoza and offers a highly textual reading of Berkeley on the concept of an exhausted subjectivity. The author begins by following the Renaissance universe of vision, particularly the paradoxical elusive nature of mirrors, then shows how this conception of vision was translated into the optical devices and in what way the various ways of deception could be conceived. Reading Berkeley against the backdrop of competing theories in relation to Leibniz, Spinoza, Newton, Malebranche, Hume, Locke, Molyneux and others, this book gives a meticulous historic reconstruction of Berkeley's theory. This excellent scholarly work presents Berkeley's theory in a new and radical light. The book is presented in three parts: begins by presenting the conceptions of vision prior to Berkeley's intervention. In the second part the author moves through a careful study of Descartes' theory of vision to arrive at Berkeley. The third part addresses the author's version of Berkeley in which the eye and the image become inseparable due to the collapse of the universe of representation. The problem of vision becomes not that of representation but of presentation. Through an erudite historic reading of Berkeley's theory and astute comparative assessments the author uncovers Berkeley's place as a contemporary theoretician corresponding with such thinkers as Deleuze, Lacan, Foucault and Derrida. Eating Their Words Kristen Guest, 2001-09-06 Examines the figure of the cannibal as it relates to cultural identity in a wide range of literary and cultural texts. State of New York in Supreme Court, 1917 Removals Lucy Maddox, 1991-10-24 This book resituates some familiar nineteenth century texts within the context of public debates about the place of American Indians in the civil and cultural institutions of the new American nation. Rereading texts by Melville, Hawthorne, Child, Sedgwick, Thoreau, Fuller and Parkman, Maddox demonstrates the pervasiveness of the anxieties produced by discussion of the Indian question and shows how extensively they influenced the production and reception of writing in the first half of the century. The Innocent Savage R. W. Hunter, 1963 Prime Time Prisons on U.S. TV Bill Yousman, 2009 In the current era of rampant incarceration and an ever expanding prison industrial complex, this crucial book breaks down the distorted and sensationalistic version of imprisonment found on U.S. television. Examining local and national television news broadcast, network crime dramas and the cable television prison drama Oz, the book provides a comprehensive analysis of the stories and images of incarceration most widely seen by viewers in the U.S. and around the world. The textual analysis is augmented by interviews with individuals who have spent time in U.S. prisons and jails; their insights provide important context while encouraging readers to critically reflect on their own responses to television images of imprisonment. Appropriate for both undergraduates and postgraduates, Prime Time Prisons on U.S. TV is useful for courses in media criticism, media literacy.

popular culture television studies and criminology Dickensian Affects Joshua Gooch, 2019-10-08 In Dickensian Affects Charles Dickens and Feelings of Precarity Joshua Gooch argues that Dickens's novels offer models of feeling that illuminate the dissensions that accompany life's precariousness under capitalism. By examining the role of violence, anxiety, surprise, and suspense in Dickens's novels, Gooch explores how they represent and shape emotions to create rhythms specific to their historical moment. To unearth Dickensian affects, Gooch examines how some of Dickens's novels yoke elements in their difference to signal different kinds and ways of feeling, what he terms affective form. This patterning of elements links a text's ways of feeling to its conjuncture and locates lines of flight that allow its representations of emotion to become something else. The violence of Oliver Twist links its satire of the New Poor Law to the post-abolition period of apprenticeship in the West Indies. The pervasive anxiety of The Old Curiosity Shop links Nell's journey to arguments about economic inequality focused on questions of inheritance and land reform. The surprise of David Copperfield binds its interests in questions of character and trust to Britain's professional world and credit markets. And the suspense of Great Expectations gestures toward a sense of shame and demand for new models of masculine character also seen in the Volunteer rifle militias. Dickensian Affects argues that for Dickens, questions of feeling reveal the precarity of feeling itself. For Dickens, to feel is to know the possibility of feeling otherwise. Catalog University of Texas. Library. Native Americans on Film M. Elise Marubbio, Eric L. Buffalohead, 2013-02-22 An essential book for courses on Native film, indigenous media, not to mention more general courses. A very impressive and useful collection. Randolph Lewis, author of Navajo Talking Picture. The film industry and mainstream popular culture are notorious for promoting stereotypical images of Native Americans: the noble and ignoble savage, the proud and challenged sidekick, the ruthless warrior, the female drudge, the princess, the sexualized maiden, the drunk, and others. Over the years, Indigenous filmmakers have both challenged these representations and moved past them, offering their own distinct forms of cinematic expression. Native Americans on Film draws inspiration from the Indigenous film movement, bringing filmmakers into an intertextual conversation with academics from a variety of disciplines. The resulting dialogue opens a myriad of possibilities for engaging students with ongoing debates: What is Indigenous film? Who is an Indigenous filmmaker? What are Native filmmakers saying about Indigenous film and their own work? This thought-provoking text offers theoretical approaches to understanding Native cinema, includes pedagogical strategies for teaching particular films, and validates the different voices, approaches, and worldviews that emerge across the movement. Accomplished scholars in the emerging field of Native film studies, Marubbio and Buffalohead focus clearly on the needs of this field They do scholars and students of Native film a great service by reprinting four seminal and provocative essays James Ruppert author of Meditation in Contemporary Native American Literature Succeed s in depicting the complexities in study teaching and creating Native film Regardless of an individual s level of knowledge and expertise in Native film Native Americans on Film is a valuable read for anyone interested in this topic Studies in American Indian Literatures

I Suffer Therefore I Am Pascal Bruckner,2025-08-21 In the West today suffering has become a new sacred cow Once a common feature of the human condition it is now a special trait you can use to impress your contemporaries It provides you with a borrowed identity transforming you into an exceptional being who can show off on the public stage at little cost Everyone flaunts their certificate of affliction positioning themselves above their peers Even those who are well off and powerful seek to find a place in the aristocracy of the margins creating new castes of the dispossessed at the expense of the truly unfortunate Infused with bitterness this cult of the victim glorifies the martyr figure and feeds into the passions of revenge and resentment This is the message of our age we are all victims and entitled to feel sorry for ourselves The submissive humanity of Christianity and the arrogant humanity of modernity have now been replaced by a victimized humanity allergic to distress Pampered coddled raised in fear and sensitivity how will younger generations be able to confront the chaotic world that awaits them marked by war violence terrorism and climate chaos Who will teach them the courage to endure to face setbacks head on without faltering in the face of misfortune
