Saving Plants and Jobs Paul F. Gerhart,1987 Assisting Dislocated Workers ,1991 Imports, Exports, and the American Worker Susan M. Collins,2010-12-01 Will technological improvement and growth in the rest of the world cause a decline in American living standards Can government policy in Japan and Western Europe limit the availability of high wage jobs in America Does expanding trade with Mexico and other developing countries with large numbers of inexpensive workers imply a continuing decline in wages for low skilled American workers These questions express a widespread concern about potential negative effects of import competition on domestic labor markets but ignore potential gains to U S workers from exports abroad Through U S exports the rest of the world is an increasingly large indirect employer of U S workers and through imports foreign labor is an increasingly important potential substitute for U S workers Bringing together the often diverse perspectives of international economists labor economists and policymakers this volume analyzes how international trade affects the level and distribution of wages and employment in the United States examines the need for government intervention and evaluates policy options In addition to the editor the contributors are Jagdish Bhagwati Columbia University and American Enterprise Institute J Bradford De Long U S Department of the Treasury and University of California Berkeley I M Destler University of Maryland and Institute for International Economics Richard B Freeman Harvard University and London School of Economics Louis Jacobson WESTAT Lori G Kletzer University of California Santa Cruz Edward Leamer University of California Los Angeles Michael Piore Massachusetts Institute of Technology Ana Revenga and Claudio Montenegro The World Bank Jeffrey D Sachs and Howard Shatz Harvard University Nonunion Employee Representation Bruce E. Addison,John S. Heywood,Xiangdong Wei,2001 In this paper we exploit the longitudinal element of the 1990 and 1998 Workplace Employee Relations Surveys for Britain to investigate the effect of unionism on establishment closings Contrary to both recent U S research and British work using information from the earlier workplace surveys we find a robust positive association between two measures of unionism union recognition for collective bargaining purposes and union coverage and plant closings This association survives the incorporation of very detailed industry controls but is driven by plants that are parts of multi establishment enterprises There appears to be little or no statistically significant association for single plant enterprises In explaining our findings we address their consistency with the widely perceived reduction in the disadvantages of British unionism in recent years Resources in Education ,1988 Full Disclosure Archon Fung,Mary Graham,David Weil,2007 Publisher description Industrial and Labor Relations Review ,2006 Industrial & Labor Relations Review ,1992 Plant Closings ,1991 The four papers in this report look at what
