- Americans wanted to secure the Northern boarder from a British attack
- 1775 American armies attacked yet failed to take Quebec

Japanese American Incarceration Stephanie D. Hinnershitz,2021-10-01 Between 1942 and 1945 the U S government wrongfully imprisoned thousands of Japanese American citizens and profited from their labor Japanese American Incarceration recasts the forced removal and incarceration of approximately 120 000 Japanese Americans during World War II as a history of prison labor and exploitation Following Franklin Roosevelt s 1942 Executive Order 9066 which called for the exclusion of potentially dangerous groups from military zones along the West Coast the federal government placed Japanese Americans in makeshift prisons throughout the country In addition to working on day to day operations of the camps Japanese Americans were coerced into harvesting crops digging irrigation ditches paving roads and building barracks for little to no compensation and often at the behest of privately run businesses all in the name of national security How did the U S government use incarceration to address labor demands during World War II and how did imprisoned Japanese Americans respond to the stripping of not only their civil rights but their labor rights as well Using a variety of archives and collected oral histories Japanese American Incarceration uncovers the startling answers to these questions Stephanie Hinnert's timely study connects the government's exploitation of imprisoned Japanese Americans to the history of prison labor in the United States Serving Our Country Brenda L.
