Aquaculture, the culture of aquatic organisms including aquatic vegetations under controlled conditions, which are now recognized as a viable and profitable farming or enterprise worldwide. As aquaculture technology has evolved, the push toward higher yields and faster growth has involved the enhancement or replacement of natural foods with prepared diets. In many aquaculture operations today, feed accounts for more than a half of the variable operating cost. Therefore, knowledge of fish nutrition and practical feeding of fish is essential for successful aquaculture. This teaching manual aims for a better understanding of fish nutrition and feed technology. There are six major areas of interest in which 25 chapters are included. This teaching manual is a guide for anyone interested in fish nutrition and feed technology areas and student communities in particular.

Fish and shellfish are contributing highly nutritious and healthy food to the food basket of the world over. The world per capita seafood consumption reached a record level of 20 kg per person per year for the first time in history. This is twice the level of average per capita fish consumption in the 1960s in the world. The global trade value of seafood has increased to 150 billion. The total fish production in the world is 150 million tons in 2014 (FAO), out of which 70 million tons is contributed by aquaculture. While the natural capture fishery resources are fast dwindling, contribution by aquaculture is ever increasing. The culture of crustaceans and finfishes is propelled mainly by intentional feeding of formulated feeds. As the demand for fish as food for human consumption is ever increasing, aquaculture is the only alternative to bridge the gap between supply and demand. Indian aquaculture production has shown impressive growth, with total aquaculture production nearing 7 million tons, contributing almost 70% to the total seafood production. Indian aquaculture sector is mainly represented by the large-scale culture of Indian Major Carps.
