Pointy Bows And Miss Longfingers:

Miss MacIntosh, My Darling Marguerite Young, 2024-04-09 This novel is one of the most ambitious and remarkable literary achievements of our time. It is a picaresque psychological novel, a novel of the road, a journey or voyage of the human spirit in its search for reality in a world of illusion and nightmare. It is an epic of what might be called the Arabian Nights of American life. Marguerite Young's method is poetic, imagistic, incantatory in prose of extraordinary richness; she tests the nature of her characters and the nature of reality. Miss MacIntosh, My Darling is written with oceanic music moving at many levels of consciousness and perception, but the toughly fibred realistic fabric is always there in the happenings of the narrative: the humor, the precise details, the definitions of the characters. Miss MacIntosh herself, who hails from What Cheer, Iowa, and seems downright and normal with an incorruptible sense of humor and the desire to put an end to phantoms: Catherine Cartwheel, the opium lady, a recluse who is shut away in a great New England seaside house and entertains imaginary guests; Mr Spitzer, the lawyer, musical composer, and mystical space traveler, a gentle man wholly unsure of himself and of reality; his twin brother Peron, the gay and raffish gambler and virtuoso in the world of sports; Cousin Hannah, the horsewoman, balloonist, mountain climber, and militant Boston feminist known as Al Hamad through all the seraglios of the East; Titus Bonebreaker of Chicago, wild man of God, dreaming of a heavenly crown; the very efficient Christian hangman Mr Weed of the Wabash River Valley, a featherweight champion who meets his equal in a graveyard; these are a few who live with phantasmagorical vividness in the pages of Miss MacIntosh, My Darling. The novel touches on many aspects of life: drug addiction, woman's suffrage, murder, suicide, pregnancy, both real and imaginary, schizophrenia, many strange loves, the psychology of gambling, perfectionism, but the profusion of this huge book serves always to intensify the force of the central question: What shall we do when fleeing from illusion, we are confronted by illusion? What is real, what is dream? Is the calendar of the human heart the same as that kept by the earth? Is it possible that one may live a secondary life of which one does not know? In every aspect, Miss MacIntosh, My Darling stands by itself in the lyric beauty of its prose, its imaginative vitality, and cumulative emotional power. It is the work of a writer of genius. The Soldier's Orphans Ann Sophia Stephens, 1866 Peterson's Magazine, 1866 New Peterson Magazine, 1866 New Peterson Magazine Charles Jacobs Peterson, 1866 The Lady in the Lake, The Little Sister, The Long Goodbye, Playback Raymond Chandler, 2002-10-15 Creator of the famous Philip Marlowe, Raymond Chandler elevated the American hard-boiled detective genre to an art form. Chandler's last four novels published here in one volume offer ample opportunity to savor the unique and utterly compelling fictional world that made his works modern classics. The Lady in the Lake moves Marlowe out of his usual habitat of city streets and into the mountains outside of Los Angeles in his strange search for a missing woman. The Little Sister takes Marlowe to Hollywood where he tries to find a sweet young thing's missing brother, uncovering on the way a little blackmail, a lot of drugs and more than enough murder. In The Long Goodbye, a case involving a war-scarred drunk and his nymphomaniac wife has Marlowe constantly on the move. A psychotic gangster's on his trail, he's in trouble with the cops and more and more corpses keep turning up. Playback features a well-endowed redhead who leads Marlowe to the California coast to solve a tale of big money and of course murder. Throughout these masterpieces, Marlowe's wry humor and existential sense of his job prove yet again why he has become one of the most recognized and imitated characters in fiction. Featuring the iconic character that inspired the forthcoming film Marlowe starring Liam Neeson.

Passion's Song Carolyn Jewel, 2014-10-04 He's a wealthy nobleman. She's leading a double life. Will their love sing? American Isobel Rowland doesn't have much beside her music. When she finds out she's the illegitimate daughter of an English aristocrat, the world opens up to near unlimited possibilities. The only problem is that her father wants her to give up the music and find a husband. Alexander, the Marquess of Hartforde, has little to no interest in remarriage, though he does find the young Miss Rowland intriguing. As he considers his options, Alexander acts as a patron to a promising American musician. Ian Rowland. Little does he know Ian is none other than Isobel in disguise. Can Isobel keep up her charade as she develops feelings for the Marquess? What will Alexander do when he finds out the truth? It's time to face the music.

Passion's Song is the debut Georgian romance novel of author Carolyn Jewel. If you like mistaken identity plots, strong female heroines and laugh-out-loud moments, then you'll love a story that will be music to your ears. Buy Passion's Song to read the melodious tale of love today. Passion's Song was originally published in 1987 and is the first book I wrote. Other than correcting typographical errors in the original, this book stands as I wrote it in 1987. The back cover copy of the original book referred to a devilish duke, even though there was no duke in the story. I have refrained from the temptation to add one.
