Reallocating Resources How To Boost Student Achievement Without Asking For More:

Reallocating Resources Allan Odden, Sarah Archibald, 2001 Although there has been receptivity to the notion of school level resource reallocation there has been a dearth of information on how resource reallocation can actually be implemented The authors goal is to describe actual resource reallocation practices and the realities of the resource reallocation process using examples from the schools that they have studied as well as schools that others have studied Though it is helpful to know that resource reallocation is feasible it is even more helpful to principals and teachers to understand the nitty gritty details of it which resources get reduced which resources are added what funding sources are tapped what problems are encountered and how the process unfolds in real school settings All types of schools were included in the study schools in urban suburban and rural districts large and small schools and schools in large medium and small school districts The schools studied also reflect a range of student demographics from low to high percentages of minorities and students eligible for free or reduced price lunches Each school adopted a number of new educational strategies each of which required various expensive educational ingredients smaller classes more planning time expanded professional development tutoring for students who were struggling to achieve high standards etc This book tells the story of how schools can finance expensive program needs by describing the vast array of decisions that must be made including how to pay for the new strategies

How to Get the Most Reform for Your Reform Money Agnes Gilman Case, 2004 What many change leaders seek from school and don't receive is knowledge on how to read a budget administer funds for a school or program and prepare a report for the superintendent or the public Here author Agnes Case explains how education change leaders can use the money that comes to the school district in ways that more effectively support the reform movement in the school district
