Gusfield,2015-03-31 In recent years the social sciences and the humanities have drawn closer to each other in thought and method This rapprochement has led to new perceptions of human behavior by sociologists as well as new methodological orientations Sociologist Joseph R Gusfield draws upon drama and fiction to show how human action is shaped by the formal dimensions of performance Gusfield first defines the concept of behavior as artistic performance He then analyzes routine and classic social research reports as literary performances in qualitative and quantitative terms Next he moves to social movements and public actions demonstrating how objects and events are products of the interpretation and reflection of individuals He draws upon literary and artistic conventions to deal with issues of representation and meaning In the first and last chapters Gusfield provides a conceptual summary examining the relation between sociology as science and art arguing that sociological methods are neither science nor art but partake of both Following the philosopher Paul Ricoeur Gusfield shows how human behavior can be read as a text always telling the participant or observer something about something Performing Action will be of interest to sociologists psychologists and students of aesthetics and critical theory Meeting Public Demands, 1988 Public Service Employment Legislation, 1974, Hearings Before the Subcommittee on Employment, Poverty, and Migratory Labor Of..., 93-2, Sept. 16; Oct. 16 and 17, 1974 United States.
