Serving with the Urban Poor Tetsunao Yamamori, Bryant L. Myers, Kenneth L. Luscombe, 1998 Serving the Urban Poor David Fanshel, Stephen J. Finch, John F. Grundy, 1992-08-24 The urban poor suffer many problems beyond pressing financial concerns including those involving housing health and family relationships Social welfare agencies struggle to cope with the enormity of need presented by individuals and families The providers frequently lack a framework to guide their priorities and the delivery of services This volume based on the authors close and extensive collaboration with New York s Lower East Family Union affords a substantive insightful and effective approach not only to defining the services needed but also to the delivery thereof It also examines the cognitive and emotional states which the clients bring as they seek help Means are provided for establishing priority of needs assessing the value of preventive services and formulating family specific service responses Potential family dissolution and implicit child welfare concerns are viewed as especially critical and receives extensive constructive discussion Stressed poverty level families often approach helping agencies in a nearly exhausted condition The needs of such clients can only be answered and the last straw avoided if the agencies are structured to identify the most immediate needs and to supply the understanding supportive relationship and the requisite practical assistance This book with its extensive base of experience guides the process wisely It offers informed hope that the awful conditions of the urban poor can be ameliorated through better planned and effective service delivery and caring interventions Serving with the Urban Poor, 1998 Water Service Provision for the Peri-urban Poor in Post-conflict Angola Allan Cain, Martin Mulenga, 2009 This paper is an output of the Sida DANIDA and DFID funded project entitled Improving urban water and sanitation provision globally through information and action driven locally This project was carried out by IIED and five of its partners in Angola Argentina Ghana India and Pakistan The project aims to document innovative and inspiring examples of locally driven water and sanitation initiatives in deprived urban areas The project provides a basis for better understanding of how to identify and build upon local initiatives that are likely to improve water and sanitation services The project also looks at how local organisations in those countries have managed to scale up successful projects work collaboratively finance water and sanitation schemes and use information systems such as mapping to drive local action and monitor improvements Mental Health Issues and the Urban Poor Dorothy Alita Evans, William L. J. Richards,A. M. Thomson,2017-10-12 Originally published in 1984 The diverse problems suffered by the urban poor in Asia and the means by which their welfare levels can be raised are investigated comprehensively in this study All chapters written by specialists deal with a particular subject but the general theme remains that the factors causing urban poverty and low income levels are interconnected and transmitted from one generation to another It is intended that this study will lead to discussion of the problems involved in providing services for the urban poor and result in the increased responsiveness of urban management This title will be of interest to students of urban and development studies      Urban Poor Funds Diana Mitlin,2008      The Betrayal of the Urban Poor Helene Slessarev,Helene Slessarev-Jamir,1997 Presents the history from 1960 of how policies allegedly designed to promote the welfare of the urban poor have been half hearted This book shows how little the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the War on Poverty provided for the urban poor and demonstrates the weakness of job training programs devised at the federal level      Place Matters Peter Dreier,John H. Development Bas van Vliet, Joost van Buuren, Shaaban Mgana, 2013-11-12 Urban sanitation and solid waste sectors are under significant pressure in East Africa due to the lack of competent institutional capacity and the growth of the region's urban population. This book presents and applies an original analytical approach to assess the existing socio-technical mixtures of waste and sanitation systems and to ensure wider access, increase flexibility and ecological sustainability. It shows how the problem is not the current diversity in waste and sanitation infrastructures and services and variety of types and scales of technology of formal and informal sector involvement and of management and ownership modes. The book focuses instead on the lack of an integrative approach to managing and upgrading of the various waste and sanitation configurations and services so as to ensure wider access, flexibility and sustainability for the low income populations who happen to be the main stakeholders. This approach coined Modernized Mixtures serves as a nexus throughout the book. The empirical core addresses the waste and sanitation challenges and debates at each scale from the micro level households to the macro level international support and is based on the results of a five year long interdisciplinary empirical research program. It assesses the socio-technical diversity in waste and sanitation and provides viable solutions to sanitation and waste management in East Africa. This book provides students, researchers and professionals in environmental technology, sociology, management and urban planning with an integrated analytical perspective on centralized and decentralized waste and sanitation configurations and tools for improvement in the technology, policy and management of sanitation and solid waste sectors.

Regulating Water and Sanitation for the Poor Richard Franceys, Esther Gerlach, 2012-05-04 The aim of this book is to present the potential benefits as well as the challenges of introducing a more formal economic regulatory process into the urban water sector arena in lower income countries. There is a particular focus upon the impact this may have on the poorest, the informal slum and shanty dwellers of the rapidly growing cities. Economic regulation usually introduced in the context of private operation of monopoly water supply can deliver objectivity and transparency in the price setting process for public as well as private providers. The book describes and analyses these issues through a consideration of ten country case studies. As a starting point, the current situation for the provision of water and sanitation services for the poorest through non-regulated public providers in India and Uganda is reviewed. Comparative chapters are then presented on Ghana, Philippines, Bolivia, Jordan, Zambia and Indonesia, all with varying degrees of private sector involvement and regulation. Finally, the experiences of two richer countries are considered, Chile and England, countries with the longest experience of economic regulation and the most privatized suppliers. In all cases, there is a focus on the very necessary role of customer involvement in price setting and service monitoring and on the role of alternative private service providers.      Making the Urban Health Mission Work for the
