Definitely a book that sheds light on perspectives and perceptions about today's global economy. A must read for tourists and corporations alike, also heads of state, the media, and environment groups, all of whom need to be informed on this key subject. Chief Garry John Chair and Spokesperson at the IMC Chiefs Council, an activist's call to action on behalf of people who have been made invisible in the merciless spread of globalization under corporate control. Nina Rao, Southern Co. Chair of the Tourism Caucus at the UN Commission on Sustainable Development and Professor of Tourism. A powerful and much needed tool to fight the seemingly all pervasive ignorance in the corporate and consumer driven world that continues to hail ecotourism and other tourism alternatives as beneficial to local people without looking at the root causes of problems. Anita Pleumarom, Tourism Investigation and Monitoring Team Bangkok. Tourism is the fastest growing industry in the world. Ecotourism often considered a more benign form of tourism can in fact cause the most damage as it targets more vulnerable environments and cultures. Is the Sacred for Sale looks at our present crossroads in consumer society. It analyses the big questions of tourism, clarifying how tourism can support biodiversity conservation. It also offers a cross cultural window to the divide between corporate thinking and sacred knowledge to help us understand why collisions over resources and land use are escalating. Finally, we have a full spectrum of information for healthy dialogue and new relationships. This book is a profound wake up call to the business world and to decision makers who shape current policy. It poses important questions to us all and is a must read for every tourist and traveller. A Handmade Life William Coperthwaite, John Saltmarsh, 2007-03-07. A richly textured exploration of Bill Coperthwaite's work and thought, encouraging us to take the lessons of his life to heart. Each of us has the potential to craft our own lives with our own hands, actively, joyfully, and nonviolently, drawing upon the wisdom of our ancestors, striving for justice in the present and fulfilling our obligations to those who will inherit our legacy. John Saltmarsh. William Coperthwaite is a teacher, builder, designer, and writer who for many years has explored the possibilities of true simplicity on a homestead on the north coast of Maine. In the spirit of Henry David Thoreau, Emily Dickinson, and Helen and Scott Nearing, Coperthwaite has fashioned a livelihood of integrity and completeness, buying almost nothing, providing for his own needs, and serving as a guide and companion to hundreds of apprentices drawn to his unique way of being. A Handmade Life carries Coperthwaite's ongoing experiments with hand tools, hand grown and gathered food, and handmade shelter, clothing, and furnishings out into the world to challenge and inspire. His writing is both philosophical and practical, exploring themes of beauty, work, education, and design, while giving instruction on the hand crafting of the necessities of life. Richly illustrated with luminous color photographs by Peter Forbes, the book is a moving and inspirational testament to a new practice of old ways of life. The Green Revolution, 1995. Up Tunket Road Philip Ackerman-Leist, 2010-05-14. Ever since Thoreau's Walden, the image of the American homesteader has been of someone getting away from civilization, of forging an independent life in the country. Yet if this were ever true, what is the nature and reality of homesteading in the media-saturated, hyper-connected 21st century? For seven years, Philip Ackerman-Leist and his wife Erin lived without electricity or running water in an old cabin in the beautiful but remote hills of western New England. Slowly forging their own farm and homestead, they took inspiration from their experiences among the mountain farmers of the Tirolean Alps and were guided by their Vermont neighbors who taught them about what it truly means to live sustainably in the postmodern homestead: not only to survive but to thrive in a fragmented landscape and a fractured economy. Up Tunket Road is the inspiring true story of a young couple who embraced the joys of simple living while also acknowledging its frustrations and complexities. Ackerman-Leist writes with humor about the inevitable foibles of setting up life off the grid: from hauling frozen laundry uphill to getting locked in the henhouse by their ox. But he also weaves an instructive narrative that contemplates the future of simple living. His is not a how-to guide but something much richer and more important: a tale of discovery that will resonate with readers who yearn for a better, more meaningful life, whether they live in the city, country, or somewhere in between.

The Chelsea Green Reader Ben Watson, 2014-12-02. Chelsea Green, the Vermont-based independent publisher, has always had a nose for authors and subjects that are way ahead of the cultural curve, as is evident in this new anthology celebrating the company's first thirty years in publishing. The more than one hundred books represented in this collection reflect the many distinct areas in which we have published: from literature and memoirs to progressive politics to highly practical books on green building, organic gardening, and farming food and health, and related subjects, all of which reflect our underlying philosophy: The politics and practice of sustainable living. The Chelsea

Green Reader offers a glimpse into our wide ranging list of books and authors and to the important ideas that they express Interesting and worth reading in their own right the individual passages when taken as a whole trace the evolution of a highly successful small publisher something that is almost an oxymoron in these days of corporate buyouts and multinational book groups From the beginning Chelsea Green s books were nationally recognized garnering positive reviews accolades and awards We ve published four New York Times bestsellers and our books have set the standard for in depth how to books that remain relevant years often decades beyond their original publication date Chelsea Green was born from a single seed the beauty of craft Craft in writing and editing in a story well told or a thesis superbly expressed writes cofounder and publisher emeritus Ian Baldwin in the book s foreword Today craft continues to inform all aspects of our work design illustration production sales promotion and beyond It has even informed our business model In 2012 Chelsea Green became an employee owned company With the rise of the Internet new media platforms and a constantly shifting bookselling landscape the future of publishing is anything but predictable But if Chelsea Green s books prove anything it is that despite these challenges there remains a hunger for new and important ideas and authors and for the permanence and craftsmanship of the printed word Today our ongoing mission is stronger than ever as we launch into our next thirty years of publishing excellence

Down East ,2007-04 Stories of Home Devika Chawla, Stacy Holman Jones, 2015-09-17 Stories of Home Place Identity Exile offers a window into the distinct ways that home is theorized and conceptualized across disciplines The essays in this volume consider how people speak and story home in their everyday lives why home is central to our notion of who we are and how making home a unit of analysis in research makes a strong conceptual contribution to the field of communication This collection engages home from diverse contexts and disparate philosophical underpinnings at the same time the essays converse with each other by centering their foci on the relationship between home place identity and exile Home how we experience it and what it says about the selves we come to occupy is an exigent question of our contemporary moment Stories of Home Place Identity Exile delivers timely and critical perspectives on these important questions

Quest for Walden Loren C. Owings, 1997 Ever since Henry David Thoreau

penned his masterpiece Walden a chronicle of his two year sojourn in the woods of Concord Massachusetts Americans have yearned for a return to pastoral life to a place where the simplicities and beauty of nature dictate a quality of life not found in modern urban America The metaphor of Walden inspired many to seek out and write about country life and the back to the land movement in America This is the first book length study of that interesting genre the country book written primarily for urban dwellers It gives detailed content analyses of both country life essays and guides to country living from 1863 through 1995
