American Jihad: A Love Story V. Diorio (V. B. D. D. D.), 2018-03-08 After losing my father and my first love at a very early age I began to seek answers to life's eternal questions including Why are we here I then met Ken at the New York World's Fair and tentatively accepted his offer of taking self defense lessons Ken told me that I would become a teacher but for years I fought against the idea Eventually I did become a teacher of learning disabled students but only recently did I truly understand what Ken's lessons meant The lessons led me on a journey that redefined everything I thought to be true It's been said When the student is ready the teacher will appear Ken appeared to me when the time was right and his words are being offered to those ready to hear them I am not a writer but feel compelled to spread Ken's story Unbelievable to even myself at times it offers insight and enlightenment to those who listen to its lessons with open minds and hearts Mothers and Daughters in Nineteenth-Century America Nancy M. Theriot, 2021-05-11 The feminine script of early nineteenth century centered on women's role as patient long suffering mothers By mid century however their daughters faced a world very different in social and economic options and in the physical experiences surrounding their bodies In this groundbreaking study Nancy Theriot turns to social and medical history developmental psychology and feminist theory to explain the fundamental shift in women's concepts of femininity and gender identity during the course of the century from an ideal suffering womanhood to emphasis on female control of physical self Theriot's first chapter proposes a methodological shift that expands the interdisciplinary horizons of women's history She argues that social psychological theories recent work in literary criticism and new philosophical work on subjectivities can provide helpful lenses for viewing mothers and children and for connecting socioeconomic change and ideological change She recommends that women's historians take bolder steps to historicize the female body by making use of the theoretical insights of feminist philosophers literary critics and anthropologists Within this methodological perspective Theriot reads medical texts and woman authored advice literature and autobiographies She relates the early nineteenth century notion of true womanhood to the socioeconomic and somatic realities of middle class women's lives particularly to their experience of the new male obstetrics The generation of women born early in the century in a close mother daughter world taught their daughters the feminine script by word and action Their daughters however the first generation to benefit greatly from professional medicine had less reason than their mothers to associate womanhood with pain and suffering The new concept of femininity they created incorporated maternal teaching but altered it to make meaningful their own very different experience This provocative study applies interdisciplinary methodology to new and long standing questions in women's history and invites women's historians to explore alternative explanatory frameworks

African American Single Mothers Bette Dickerson, 1995-01-17 The African American single parent family has tended to be a scapegoat for a variety of social problems ranging from poverty to drug abuse As a result there exists much misinformation about this family form In this collection the African American matriarchal family is re evaluated to present a more informed picture of its actual structure and functioning From an Afrocentric feminist perspective contributors examine the history legal dilemmas media images and religious values of these families The roles of children grandparents fathers other support figures and the government are reviewed This insider view of these households concludes with suggestions of more effective and sensitive policy approaches to this t

African-American and White Adolescent Mothers Faith L. Samples, 1998 This book examines the effectiveness of nurse home visits that have designed to ensure the healthy growth and development of young children of poor unmarried African American and white adolescent mothers by enhancing the mothers social support networks Now more than ever adolescent pregnancy and out of wedlock births are among the social and economic conditions that have made it difficult for American families to sustain themselves Of primary concern is whether teenage mothers can effectively meet the needs of their infants when they themselves are grappling with developmental issues inherent in adolescence This study concludes that the results of nurse home visits for adolescent mothers are mixed depending on racial background and treatment group Nurse visits increased levels of anticipated support on the part of adolescent mothers and enhanced the level of interest that male partners had in the pregnancies Adolescent mothers without nurse visits were more likely than those with nurse visits to have high levels of child care and chore support once their children were born African American adolescents reported higher levels of support in general than did white mothers This book discusses the implications of these findings for policy

The American Catalog, 1900-1905 ,1905 The Juvenile Court Record ,1916 The American West Gordon Morris Bakken, 2000 The Music in African American Fiction Robert H. Cataliotti, 2019-09-16 This is the first comprehensive historical analysis of how black music and musicians have been represented in the fiction of African American writers It also examines how music and musicians in fiction have exemplified the sensibilities of African Americans and provided paradigms for an African American literary tradition The fictional representation of African American music by black authors is traced from the nineteenth century William Wells Brown Martin Delany Pauline E Hopkins Paul Laurence Dunbar through the early twentieth century and the Harlem Renaissance James Weldon Johnson Langston Hughes Claude McKay Zora Neale Hurston to the 1940s and 50s Richard Wright Ann Petry James Baldwin Ralph Ellison and the 1960s and the Black Arts Movement Margaret Walker William Melvin Kelley Leroi Jones Amiri Baraka Henry Dumas In the century between Brown and Baraka the representation of music in black fiction went through a dramatic metamorphosis Music occupied a representative role in African American culture from which writers drew ideas and inspiration The music provided a way out of a limited situation by offering a viable option to the strictures of racism Individuals who overcome these limitations then become role models in the struggle toward equality African American musical forms for both artist and audience also offered a way of looking at the world survival and resistance The black musician became a ritual leader This study delineates how black writers have captured the spirit of the music that played such a pivotal role in African American culture Ph D dissertation State University of New York at Stony Brook 1993 revised with new preface and index
