Transformations of Electricity in Nineteenth-Century Literature and Science Stella Pratt-Smith,2017-05-15 Throughout the nineteenth century practitioners of science writers of fiction and journalists wrote about electricity in ways that defied epistemological and disciplinary boundaries Revealing electricity as a site for intense and imaginative Victorian speculation Stella Pratt Smith traces the synthesis of nineteenth century electricity made possible by the powerful combination of science literature and the popular imagination With electricity resisting clear description even by those such as Michael Faraday and James Clerk Maxwell who knew it best Pratt Smith argues that electricity was both metaphorically suggestive and open to imaginative speculation Her book engages with Victorian scientific texts popular and specialist periodicals and the work of leading midcentury novelists including Charles Dickens Charlotte Bronte Emily Bronte William Makepeace Thackeray and Wilkie Collins Examining the work of William Harrison Ainsworth and Edward Bulwer Lytton Pratt Smith explores how Victorian novelists attributed magical qualities to electricity imbuing it with both the romance of the past and the thrill of the future She concludes with a case study of Benjamin Lumley s Another World which presents an enticing fantasy of electricity s potential based on contemporary developments Ultimately her book contends that writing and reading about electricity appropriated and expanded its imaginative scope transformed its factual origins and applications and contravened the

Russian Officialdom in Crisis Thomas S. Pearson, 2004-02-12

This book is the first full account of the development of rural self government in Russia from the emancipation of the serfs to its bureaucratisation in the counter reforms of 1889-90. Through analysis of central and provincial perceptions of local self government and conflicting ideologies of reform, Professor Pearson challenges the conventional view of the counter reforms as a concession to gentry class interests and a reaction against zemstvo political activity. The study illuminates the rural administrative breakdown during Russia's crisis of autocracy beginning in the late 1870s and reinterprets the role of the landed gentry, prominent state officials and key commissions, ministries and administrative ideologies in the debates leading to the counter reforms.

Decentralization and Self-Government in Russia, 1830-1870

Frederick S. Starr, 2015-03-08. The turbulent period of renewal and innovation that followed Russia's crushing defeat in the Crimea has been interpreted historically in terms of the emancipation of the serfs and the evolution of the gentry class. But contends Frederick Starr such an approach underestimates the breadth and intensity of the impulse for local reforms per se. After tracing the ideological sources of the reform, Mr Starr examines in detail the legislative process by which administrative decentralization and public self government were instituted. Political Repression in 19th Century Europe Robert Justin Goldstein, 2013-06-17. Originally published in 1983, the nineteenth century was a time of great economic, social and political change. As Europe modernized, previously ignorant and apathetic elements in the population began to demand political freedoms. There was pressure also for a freer press for the rights of assembly and association. The apprehension of the existing elites manifested itself in an intensification of often brutal forms of political repression. The first part of this book summarizes on a pan-European basis the major techniques of repression such as the denial of popular franchise and press censorship. This is followed by a chronological survey of these techniques from 1815-1914 in each European country. The book analyzes the long and short term importance of these events for European historical development in the 19th and 20th centuries.

Taking Stock - Twenty-Five Years of Comparative Literary Research

, 2019-10-29. Read an interview with Norbert Bachleitner. In this 200th volume of Internationale Forschungen zur Allgemeinen und Vergleichenden Literaturwissenschaft, the editors Norbert Bachleitner, Achim H. H. Iltis and John A. McCarthy take stock of the discipline. It focuses on recurrent questions in the field of Comparative Literature: What is literature? What is meant by comparative? Or by world? What constitute transgressions or refractions? What ultimately does being at home in the world

imply When we combine the answers to these individual questions we might ultimately reach an intriguing proposition Comparative Literature contributes to a sense of being at home in a world that is heterogeneous and fractured rather than affirming a monolithic canon marked by territory and homogeneity The volume unites essays on world literature literature in the context of the history of ideas comparative women and gender studies aesthetics and textual analysis and literary translation and tradition
