What Are the Limits of Organ Transplants? Anna Claybourne, 2012 Discusses the process of organ transplantation which organs can be transplanted and cutting edge science in the field

The Political Economy of Organ Transplantation Hagai Boas, 2022-09-09 This thought provoking work examines how the relationships of organs tissues and cells transferred from one body to another through donation sale or gift are mediated by the state market and family The book is a thorough review of the sociological anthropological and ethical literature surrounding transplant organs but encased within the author's own personal dilemmas and lived experience His work skillfully underscores the negotiations and accommodations inherent in the use of these technologies and reveals the situatedness of decisions that belie any simplistic readings of the ethics of transplantations This is a stimulating and accessible book for those with an interest in transplantation ethics or the social implications of medical technologies Its strength lies in the reflexive accounts from the author of his own experience juxtaposed with the sensitive appraisals of the workings of the state market and family in the organ economy Andrea Whittaker Monash University reviewed for Social Forces This innovative work combines a rigorous academic analysis of the political economy of organ supply for transplantation with autobiographical narratives that illuminate the complex experience of being an organ recipient Organs for transplantations come from two sources living or post mortem organ donations These sources set different routes of movement from one body to another Postmortem organ donations are mainly sourced and allocated by state agencies while living organ donations are the result of informal relations between donor and recipient Each route traverses different social institutions determines discrete interaction between donor and recipient and is charged with moral meanings that can be competing and contrasting The political economy of organs for transplants is the gamut of these routes and their interconnections and this book suggests how such a political economy looks like what are its features and contours its negotiation of the roles of the state market and the family in procuring organs for transplantations and its ultimate moral justifications Drawing on Boas personal experiences of waiting searching and obtaining organs each autobiographical section of the book sheds light on a different aspect of the discussed political economy of organs post mortem donations parental donation and organ market and illustrates the experience of living with the fear of rejection and the intimidation of chronic shortage A Political Economy of Organ Transplantation is of interest to students and academics with an interest in bioethics sociology of health and illness medical anthropology and science and technology studies

The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a brilliant and gripping novel that will keep you wondering until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
