Hopeful Pedagogies in Higher Education Mike Seal, 2021-05-20 Many accounts of critical pedagogy particularly accounts of trying to enact it within higher education HE express a deep cynicism about whether it is possible to counter the ever creeping hegemony of neo liberalism neo conservatism and new managerialism within Universities Hopeful Pedagogies in Higher Education acknowledges some of these criticisms but attempts to rescue critical pedagogy locating some of its associated pessimism as misreading of Freire and offering hopeful avenues for new theory and practice These misreadings are also located in the present in the assumption that unless change comes within the lifetime of the project it has somehow failed Instead this book argues that a positive utopianism is possible Present actions need to be celebrated and cultivated as symbols of hope possibility and generativity for the future which the concept of hope implies The contributors make the case for celebrating the pedagogies of HE that operate in liminal spaces situated in the spaces between the present and the future between the world as it is and the world as it could be and also in the cracks that are beginning to show in the dominant discourses

Policy, Discourse and Rhetoric Marie Lall, 2012-09-11 This is not yet another book on New Labour and neoliberalism but the only book which uses policy case study evidence to show the rhetorical nature of the commitment New Labour appeared to have been making to education Unlike other books on that era this one aims to review New Labour's time in government through specific policy texts This book reviews some of the major policy shifts in the education sector analysing selected case study policies in order to articulate dominant discourses in recent policy making which have helped establish a particular hegemony The book's originality lies in its policy analysis and case study base whereby key policy texts across different sectors are dissected using the policy cycle framework allowing for an in depth analysis of the policy discourse as well as a discussion on how the neoliberal agenda was reflected and or promoted Education is often only perceived as limited to policies relating to schools and higher education However the book seeks to demonstrate that education as a sector is a much broader field and therefore the areas covered include key policies in citizenship and youth work widening participation in higher education the place of inclusive education in the curriculum the undergraduate medical curriculum and the effect of the Cox review on creativity In effect the broad selection of sectors demonstrates that New Labour's education policies were not only detrimental in traditional education settings but also affected areas such as medicine and the media which are of importance to those who no longer are affected by what happens in institutions of learning and teaching The book is consequently relevant for a much wider audience beyond the education community
