Pastoral Capitalism Louise A. Mazingo, 2016-05-27 How business appropriated the pastoral landscape as seen in the corporate campus the corporate estate and the office park By the end of the twentieth century America's suburbs contained more office space than its central cities Many of these corporate workplaces were surrounded somewhat incongruously by verdant vistas of broad lawns and leafy trees In Pastoral Capitalism Louise Mazingo describes the evolution of these central but often ignored features of postwar urbanism in the context of the modern capitalist enterprise These new suburban corporate landscapes emerged from a historical moment when corporations reconceived their management structures the city decentralized and dispersed into low density auto dependent peripheries and the pastoral in the form of leafy residential suburbs triumphed as an American ideal Greenness writes Mazingo was associated with goodness and pastoral capitalism appropriated the suburb's aesthetics and moral code Like the lawn proud suburban homeowner corporations understood a pastoral landscape's capacity to communicate identity status and right mindedness Mazingo distinguishes among three forms of corporate landscapes the corporate campus the corporate estate and the office park and examines suburban corporate landscapes built and inhabited by such companies as Bell Labs General Motors Deere Company and Microsoft She also considers the globalization of pastoral capitalism in Europe and the developing world including Singapore India and China Mazingo argues that even as it is proliferating pastoral capitalism needs redesign as do many of our metropolitan forms for pressing social cultural political and environmental reasons Future transformations are impossible however unless we understand the past Pastoral Capitalism offers an indispensable chapter in urban history examining not only the design of corporate landscapes but also the economic social and cultural models that determined their form

Architecture as the Ethics of Climate Jin Baek, 2016-06-10 At a time when climate and ethics have become so important to architectural debate this book proposes an entirely new way for architects to engage with these core issues Drawing on Tetsuro Watsuji's 1889-1960 philosophy the book illuminates climate not as a collection of objective natural phenomena but as a concrete form of bond in which who we are the subjective human experience is indivisibly intertwined with the natural phenomena The book further elucidates the inter personal nature of climatic experiences criticizing a view that sees atmospheric effects of climate under the guise of personal experientialism and reinforcing the linkage between climate and ethos as the appropriateness of a setting for human affairs This ethical premise of climate stretches the horizon of sustainability as pertaining not only to man's solitary relationship with natural phenomena a predominant trend in contemporary discourse of sustainability but also to man's relationship with man Overcoming climatic determinism regional determinism too and expanding the ethics of the inter personal to the level where the whole and particulars are joined through the dialectics of the mutually negating opposites Jin Baek develops a new thesis engaging with the very urgent issues inherent in sustainable architecture Crucially the book explores examples that join climate and the dynamics of the inter personal including Japanese vernacular residential architecture the white residential architecture of Richard Neutra contemporary architectural works and urban artifacts by Tadao Ando and Aldo Rossi Beautifully illustrated this book is an important contribution to the discourse which surrounds architecture climate and ethics and encourages the reader to think more broadly about how to respond to the current challenges facing the profession

The Bookman, 1903 Urban Transformations and the Architecture of Additions Rodrigo Perez de Arce, 2014-08-07 Rodrigo Perez de Arce's essay Urban Transformations and Architectural Additions was published during the formative stages of Post Modernism at the point where theory was becoming seriously established Jencks' first essays formalising the term Post Modernism in architecture and the revised Learning from Las Vegas were published the previous year In planning terms modernism had become associated with comprehensive redevelopment and forms of urban organisation that ignored context history and any sense of tradition De Arce considered the essential nature of buildings and the richness of historic urban form and explored how robust that essence was over time He looked at the value of essential remnants and rich complexities in maintaining a sense of continuity and relevance Having explored the adaptation process in history de Arce went on to see how such a process might be simulated in contemporary cities with modern buildings using additions and layers to change them from objects in infinite windswept space to being part of a rich urban fabric which described urban place To do this he used concrete examples housing schemes by James Stirling new government centres in Chandigarh and Dacca and more prosaic 60 s housing blocks The paper had a fundamental influence on the way that architects and planners thought about the nature of cities as dynamic organisms that were tangible to human beings completely opposite to the systems thinking of the time It contributed to ideas about the importance of street place and city block which influenced so much recent regeneration practice As we enter a phase of development where the reuse and adaptation of existing buildings is becoming paramount from both an economic and sustainable point of view Perez de Arce s paper gives important insights into how to think about the process positively The American Catalogue ,1901 American national trade bibliography On Span and Space Bjorn N. Sandaker,2007-09-12 In this richly illustrated book with many practical examples Bjorn Sandaker provides readers with a better understanding of the relationship between technology and architecture As an experienced teacher and writer Sandaker offers a well founded aesthetic theory to support the understanding and evaluation of a structure s form and design examining concepts and viewpoints from both the professions of engineering and architecture Comprehensively covering structure and aesthetics this book is ideal for students professionals and academics in the areas of architecture and building A Topology of Everyday Constellations Georges Teyssot,2013-02-22 The threshold as both boundary and bridge investigations of spaces public and private local and global Today spaces no longer represent a bourgeois haven nor are they the sites of a classical harmony between work and leisure private and public the local and the global The house is not merely a home but a position for negotiations with multiple spheres the technological as well as the physical and the psychological In A Topology of Everyday Constellations Georges Teyssot considers the intrusion of the public sphere into private space and the blurring of notions of interior privacy and intimacy in our societies He proposes that we rethink design in terms of a new definition of the practices of everyday life Teyssot considers the door the window the mirror and the screen as thresholds or interstitial spaces that divide the world in two the outside and the inside Thresholds he suggests work both as markers of boundaries and as bridges to the exterior The stark choice between boundary and bridge creates a middle space an in between that holds the possibility of exchanges and encounters If the threshold no longer separates public from private and if we can no longer think of the house as a bastion of privacy Teyssot asks does the body still inhabit the house or does the house evolving into a series of microdevices inhabit the body Catalogue of Title-entries of Books and Other Articles Entered in the Office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, Under the Copyright Law ... Goldschmidt,2014-03-21 The description of a method for the notation and analysis of the creative process in design drawing on insights from design practice and cognitive psychology This book presents linkography a method for the notation and analysis of the design process Developed by Gabriela Goldschmidt in an attempt to clarify designing linkography documents how designers think generate ideas put them to the test and combine them into something meaningful With linkography Goldschmidt shows that there is a logic to the creative process that it is not as is often supposed pure magic Linkography draws on design practice protocol analysis and insights from cognitive psychology Goldschmidt argues that the generation of ideas and their inspection and adjustment evolves over a large number of small steps which she terms design moves These combine in a network of moves and the patterns of links in the networks manifest a good fit or congruence among the ideas Goldschmidt explains what parts of the design process can be observed and measured in a linkograph describing its features and notation conventions The most significant elements in a linkograph are critical moves which are particularly rich in links Goldschmidt presents studies that show the importance of critical moves in design thinking describes cases that demonstrate linkography s effectiveness in studying the creative process in design focusing on the good fit and offers thirteen linkographic studies conducted by other researchers that show the potential of linkography in design thinking research and beyond Linkography is the first book length treatment of an approach to design thinking that has already proved influential in the field
