Love and Lucy Brown Joyce Dingwell,1975 Law, Religion and Love Paul Babie,Vanja-Ivan Savić,2017-09-01

Increasingly the modern neo liberal world marginalises any notion of religion or spirituality leaving little or no room for the sacred in the public sphere While this process advances the conservative and harmful behaviours associated with some religions and their adherents exacerbate this marginalisation by driving out those who remain religious or spiritual And all of this is seen through the lens of social science which seems to agree that religion remains important if not in spiritual sense at least as a source of folklore and a means of identification religions remain rooted in the societies from which they emerged and the legal systems of many of those societies emerged from religious sources even if those societies remain unwilling to admit that fact In the modern materialistic world of conformity religion is less a source of guidance than a label of identification The world therefore faces two issues First the decreasing level of spirituality in the West widens the gap between worshippers and those who have left their faith eg agnostics and atheists or those who look at religion as a matter of picking and choosing from a range of options And second the strong connections to religion which remain in many nations but which are often misused in the secular public sphere both in the West and internationally In such divided worlds both religious and secular forces tend to lock themselves into closed groupings of pure truth and in so doing increase the level of disagreement in turn producing radicalism In short the modern world is divided in two ways between religious and non religious although some have argued that the non religious secular is itself a form of civil religion and between those subscribing to divergent understandings of the same religious tradition While hyperbolic and histrionic the term culture wars nonetheless best captures what we see happening in the public sphere today The question emerges then how best to accommodate the democratic principle which posits that the majority should feel that it lives in a society of its own with the human rights principle holding that is necessary to ensure the full protection of the minority s rights How to balance these seemingly opposed principles We are very familiar with the differences that appear between secular and sacred in the modern world yet what of the similarities amongst scriptures and laws which seek to encourage mutual understanding cooperation and even cohabitation Because religion itself is a source of law a set of exhortations or commands as much as a set of rights every major religion offers an approach to encountering the Other in a positive constructive affirming way and it is here that religions reveal much that they have in common This book draws together the work of scholars engaged in exploring the possibilities for a utopian world in the sense fostered by St Thomas More The essays explore those dimensions of religious and civil law where love however that is defined by relevant texts fosters and encourages acceptance of the Other and will offer perspectives on the ways in which religious or civil state law command one to act in the spirit of love sleeplessness and obsession these are the tell tale signs of someone in the throes of romantic passion In this revealing new book renowned anthropologist Helen Fisher explains why this experience which cuts across time geography and gender is a force as powerful as the need for food or sleep Why We Love begins by presenting the results of a scientific study in which Fisher scanned the brains of people who had just fallen madly in love She proves at last what researchers had only suspected when you fall in love primordial areas of the brain light up with increased blood flow creating romantic passion Fisher uses this new research to show exactly what you experience when you fall in love why you choose one person rather than another and how romantic love affects your sex drive and your feelings of attachment to a partner She argues that all animals feel romantic attraction that love at first sight comes out of nature and that human romance evolved for crucial reasons of survival Lastly she offers concrete suggestions on how to control this ancient passion and she optimistically explores the future of romantic love in our chaotic modern world Provocative enlightening and persuasive Why We Love offers radical new answers to the age old question of what love is and thus provides invaluable new insights into keeping love alive
