Place and Identity in the Lives of Antony, Paul, and Mary of Egypt Peter Anthony Mena, 2019-04-24 In this book, Peter Anthony Mena looks closely at descriptions of space in ancient Christian hagiographies and considers how the desert relates to constructions of subjectivity. By reading three pivotal ancient hagiographies—the Life of Antony, the Life of Paul the Hermit, and the Life of Mary of Egypt—in conjunction with Gloria Anzaldá's ideas about the US-Mexican borderlands (la frontera), Mena shows readers how descriptions of the desert in these texts are replete with spaces and inhabitants that render the desert a borderland or frontier space in Anzaldá's terms. As a borderland space, the desert functions as a device for the creation of an emerging identity in late antiquity; the desert ascetic. Simultaneously, the space of the desert is created through the image of the saint. Literary, critical, religious studies, and historical methodologies converge in this work in order to illuminate a heuristic tool for interpreting the desert in late antiquity and its importance for the development of desert asceticism. Anzaldá's theories help guide a reading especially attuned to the important relationship between space and subjectivity.

Centers of Power Joseph H. Berke, Stanley R. Schneider, 2008-01-22 Kabbalah and psychoanalysis are conceptions about the nature of reality. The former is over two thousand years old; the latter has been formalized less than a hundred years ago. Nonetheless, they are parallel journeys of discovery that have forever altered not only what we see but the very nature of seeing itself. The domain of Kabbalah is the spiritual and material macrocosm. In contrast, the concern of psychoanalysis is the microcosm—the innermost recesses of the human mind. However, both are convergent and complementary theories. Kabbalah asserts, as above, so below: meaning the Godhead, the source of everything, is reflected in the smallest details of existence. Similarly, psychoanalysis traces the evolution from inner objects to family feuds and social fields. More than theories, however, Kabbalah and psychoanalysis test the limits of direct experience. They are contemplative, meditative, and introspective methods for restoring shattered worlds and fragmented lives. These are material as well as spiritual entities which have been separated from their source on one hand the Godhead and on the other personal praxis The purpose of this study is to explore how Kabbalah and psychoanalysis converge and diverge complement and conflict with each other in order to amplify their impact and enable mankind to gain a greater understanding of reality
