Making A Television Play:

Making Plays D. Wu, 2019-06-12 Making Plays explores great drama of the last two decades through the eyes of those who write it and those who direct it. It is at once a masterclass on theatrical technique and a unique insight into the ways in which great dramatists of our time have reacted to a rapidly changing world. In this book Duncan Wu talks to Michael Attenborough, Alan Bennett, Michael Blakemore, Howard Brenton, David Edgar, Sir Richard Eyre, Michael Frayn, Sir David Hare, Nicholas Hytner, and Max Stafford Clark. Wigs and Make-up for Theatre, TV and Film Patricia Baker, 2012-10-02 This book teaches the basic skills of theatrical and media make up and wigmaking. It is ideal for students aiming at a career in the world of entertainment, whether it be theatre, television or film, or those hoping to become make up artists within these fields.

The Generation of Plays Karin Barber, 2003-03-21 Since the 1980s Yoruba popular theatre has virtually disappeared due to radio, TV and other mass media in Nigeria. This is the personal account of a theatre worker on tour with the Oyin Adejobi Company. Drawing on archives, interviews and transcribed plays, she describes a successful Yoruba drama.

While America Watches Jeffrey Shandler, 1999 In America, where mediations have always provided most people with their primary encounter with the Holocaust, television has helped transform watching into the morally charged act of witnessing the Holocaust. By tracing the course of Holocaust television over the past half century, While America Watches reveals how Americans have come to embrace this subject as a model for responding to other moral crises, from domestic racial strife to ethnic cleansing operations in Bosnia. BOOK JACKET

Understanding Children's Mathematical Graphics: Beginnings in Play Elizabeth Carruthers, Maulfry Worthington, 2011-04-16 This book challenges traditional beliefs and practices of teaching written mathematics in early childhood. It gives theoretical underpinnings and offers exciting insights and context to children's early mathematical thinking and, in particular, into children's mathematical graphics, showing how this supports their understanding of the abstract symbolic language of mathematics. Drawing on a wide range of examples, it illustrates and explains how children explore and communicate their mathematical thinking through their mathematical graphics and how this begins in play. The book looks at the power of children's own marks, symbols, and other graphical representations to convey meanings, exploring how they support complex thinking. The authors explore the relationship between children's play and meaning-making. Rather than viewing mathematics as a separate subject or as a set of basic skills to be transmitted, they demonstrate that in supportive learning cultures, children develop their own mathematical thinking to solve problems. Key features include numerous new examples and case studies of children from birth to 8 years, highlighting the complexity and richness of children's thinking. Explanation of pedagogical issues showing how they can support rich play and mathematics. Draws on the authors' latest research. This book is valuable reading for students, teachers, primary mathematics coordinators, and all early years professionals working in the Early Years Foundation Stage and Key Stage One. So You Want to Work in Sports K. Television and Behavior, 1982 Social TV Cory Barker, 2022-06-27 Winner of the 2023 SCMS Media Industries Scholarly Interest Group Outstanding Book Award sponsored by the Center for Entertainment Media Industries On March 15 2011 Donald Trump changed television forever The Comedy Central Roast of Trump was the first major live broadcast to place a hashtag in the corner of the screen to encourage real time reactions on Twitter generating more than 25 000 tweets and making the broadcast the most watched Roast in Comedy Central history The trumproast initiative personified the media and tech industries utopian vision for a multi screen and communal live TV experience In Social TV Multi Screen Content and Ephemeral Culture author Cory Barker reveals how the US television industry promised but failed to deliver a social media revolution in the 2010s to combat the imminent threat of on demand streaming video Barker examines the rise and fall of Social TV across press coverage corporate documents and an array of digital ephemera He demonstrates that despite the talk of disruption the movement merely aimed to exploit social media to reinforce the value of live TV in the modern attention economy Case studies from broadcast networks to tech start ups uncover a persistent focus on community that aimed to monetize consumer behavior in a transitional industry period To trace these unfulfilled promises and flopped ideas Barker draws upon a unique mix of personal Social TV experiences and curated archives of material that were intentionally marginalized amid pivots to the next big thing Yet in placing this now forgotten material in recent historical context Social TV shows how the era altered how the industry pursues audiences Multi screen campaigns have shifted away from a focus on live TV and toward all day content streams The legacy of Social TV then is the further embedding of media and promotional material onto every screen and into every moment of life

TV Snapshots Lynn Spigel, 2022-04-08 In TV Snapshots Lynn Spigel explores snapshots of people posing in front of their television sets in the 1950s through the early 1970s Like today's selfies TV snapshots were a popular photographic practice through which people visualized their lives in an increasingly mediated culture Drawing on her collection of over 5 000 TV snapshots Spigel shows that people did not just watch TV women used the TV set as a backdrop for fashion and glamour poses people dressed in drag in front of the screen and in pinup poses people even turned the TV setting into a space for erotic display While the television industry promoted on screen images of white nuclear families in suburban homes the snapshots depict a broad range of people across racial ethnic and class backgrounds that do not always conform to the reigning middle class nuclear family ideal Showing how the television set became a central presence in the home that exceeded its mass entertainment function Spigel highlights how TV snapshots complicate understandings of the significance of television in everyday life
