Making Music at the Bottom of the World in Southland, Aotearoa/New Zealand Sally Bodkin-Allen, 2020-01-21 This volume brings together a number of perspectives on the musical landscape of Invercargill a city at the bottom of Aotearoa New Zealand Invercargill is in many ways unique it is relatively isolated its access to liquor is controlled by a licensing trust and it is home to the longest serving mayor in Aotearoa The musicking that occurs within Invercargill is surprisingly diverse and wide ranging This book acknowledges and explores many of the South's musical communities and in doing so illustrates the importance of music in local communities It highlights the ways in which social connectedness local identity and individual lives are enriched through musical activities being interwoven through communities Aotearoa/New Zealand Shelley Brunt, Geoff Stahl, 2018-05-20 Made in Australia and Aotearoa New Zealand Studies in Popular Music serves as a comprehensive and thorough introduction to the history sociology and musicology of twentieth century popular music of Australia and Aotearoa New Zealand The volume consists of chapters by leading scholars of Australian and Aotearoan New Zealand music and covers the major figures styles and social contexts of pop music in Australia and Aotearoa New Zealand Each chapter provides adequate context so readers understand why the figure or genre under discussion is of lasting significance to Australian or Aotearoan New Zealand popular music The book first presents a general description of the history and background of popular music in these countries followed by chapters that are organized into thematic sections Place Making and Music Making Rethinking the Musical Event Musical Transformations Decline and Renewal and Global Sounds Local Identity Making New Zealand's Pop Renaissance Michael Scott, 2016-05-13 Since the early 2000s New Zealand has undergone a pop renaissance Domestic artists sales airplay and concert attendance have all grown dramatically while new avenues for kiwi pop exports emerged Concurrent with these trends was a new collective sentiment that embraced and celebrated domestic musicians In Making New Zealand's Pop Renaissance Michael Scott argues that this revival arose from state policies and shows how the state built market opportunities for popular musicians through public private partnerships and organizational affinity with existing music industry institutions New Zealand offers an instructive case for the ways in which after neo liberal states steer and co ordinate popular culture into market exchange by incentivizing cultural production Scott highlights how these music policies were intended to address various economic and social problems Arriving with the creative industries discourse and policy making politicians claimed these expanded popular music supports would facilitate sustainable employment and a sense of national identity Yet popular music as economic and social policy presents a paradox the music industry generates commercial failure and thus requires a large unattached pool of potential talent Considering this feature Scott analyses how state programs induced an informal economy of proto pop production aimed at accessing competitive state funding while simultaneously encouraging musicians to adopt entrepreneurial subjectivities In doing so he argues New Zealand s music
