Making National Energy Policy:

Making National Energy Policy Hans H. Landsberg, 2015-09-16 What we call the nation's energy policy attempts to give direction to the production, use, transportation and distribution of energy to help achieve an array of societal goals in the most compatible ways. In this title originally published in 1993, noted analysts provide insight into complex policy issues of significant importance. Among the topics addressed are difficulties encountered in trying to fashion energy policy in the U.S., Congress, the nature of energy policies and environmental policies, the challenges arising from regional conflict over energy policies and the viability of deregulating electric power production. This collection of lectures is a valuable resource for students interested in environmental studies and public policy. National Energy Policy Institute Act United States. Congress. House. Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. Subcommittee on Energy and Power, 1978 Energy Policy United States. General Accounting Office, 1993 Economic and Budgetary Effects of National Energy Policy United States. Congress. House. Committee on the Budget, 2001 Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis, 1986 A Policy of Discontent Vito Stagliano, 2001 The history and a comprehensive analysis of 65 years of energy policy making with an insider's view of the four years that resulted in the Energy Policy Act of 1992. Placed in the context of U.S. energy policy making since the New Deal, Stagliano presents a case study which lends a historical basis for measuring the ongoing work of the G.W. Bush Administration to craft a national energy strategy. Contents: Introduction by Paul T. Ruxin, Esq. A brief history of U.S. energy policy and its makers. The search for a policy consensus. The economic policy council takes control. Saddam Hussein lends a hand. The national energy strategy emerges. Scathed Congress wants to know. Epilogue. China's Energy Policy from National and International Perspectives Qinhua XU, William CHUNG, 2016-09-30 Before 2000, roughly 96% of China's energy demands were met domestically. Since 2001, however, this position of near self-reliance has changed. With steadily increasing demands, China's need for foreign energy has grown. Today, China is the world's biggest energy consumer and emitter of greenhouse gases. Building upon the first volume, which examined China's energy plans, this book will examine the strategies China has taken to meet its burgeoning energy demands, continue its fast-paced economic growth, and also address the mounting concerns about environmental welfare and the true cost of China's development. With new chapters addressing international agreements, the so-called China energy threat, and the Belt and Road Initiative, this volume will continue to discuss and interpret both domestic policies and China's international role.
