The Philosophy of Science Fiction James Edward Burton, 2015-09-24 The Philosophy of Science Fiction Henri Bergson and the Fabulations of Philip K Dick explores the deep affinity between two seemingly quite different thinkers in their attempts to address the need for salvation in and from an era of accelerated mechanization in which humans capacity for destroying or subjugating the living has attained a planetary scale The philosopher and the science fiction writer come together to meet the contradictory imperatives of a realist outlook a task which arguably philosophy and science fiction could only ever adequately undertake in collaboration Their respective approaches meet in a focus on the ambiguous status of fictionalizing or fabulation as simultaneously one of mechanization s most devastating tools and the possibility of its undoing When they are read together the complexities and paradoxes thrown up by this ambiguity with which both Bergson and Dick struggle on their own open up new ways to navigate ideas of mechanism and mysticism immanence and transcendence and the possibility and meaning of salvation The result is at once an original reading of both thinkers a new critical theory of the socio cultural political and ethical function of fictionalizing and a case study in the strange affinity at times the uncanny similarity between philosophy

The Philosophy of Science Fiction James Burton, 2013-06 If philosophy desires to understand the world science fiction dreams of saving it Yet what if these were not two separate hopes but intertwined within a general human tendency namely the capacity to fictionalize The Philosophy of Science Fiction brings together two figures for whom our ability to make fictions a reality to conceive of and even believe in the impossible is at the root both of our attempts to understand the universe and of our struggles to survive within it Henri Bergson renowned for his philosophical investigations of time memory and evolution and Philip K Dick author of some of the most highly praised science fiction of the twentieth century were born some 70 years apart into drastically different cultural milieu Yet for both modern humanity faces a critical threat in the combination of its own ancient tendency to mechanize itself and its environment with the explosive material power unleashed by modern technology Moreover they refute the idea implicit in so many areas of modern political moral scientific and religious thinking that we must choose between materialism and idealism between rationality and faith On the contrary both find in the power of fictionalizing new possibilities of salvation in a world seemingly abandoned by the gods
