The Seat of Consciousness in Ancient Literature Richard E. Lind, 2015-01-09 For early civilizations consciousness and the sense of self were experienced as located in the center of the body most often near to or within the physical heart Enlightenment was understood as the illumination of a transformed spiritual heart Thus the mind of the body as a whole was represented by the heart-soul In contrast modern culture places consciousness within the brain resulting in a mind-body dualism This separation of mind and body has recently been emphasized as characteristic of the psychopathologies of the modern self This volume explores the understanding and experience of consciousness in the earliest civilizations before about 500 BCE Beginning with a description of ancient Western and Eastern heart-consciousness the psychological and spiritual manifestations of the ancient mature heart-soul are summarized Ancestor worship lineage identity primitive consciousness and the ways in which the external world was mirrored by the inner world provide additional clues about the experience of heart-consciousness Finally the work addresses the fundamental changes in the experience of consciousness that led to the mind-body dualism of today

Lopez, 1995-04-23 The inaugural volume of Princeton Readings in Religions brings together the work of thirty scholars of the religions of India in a new anthology designed to reshape the ways in which the religious traditions of India are understood The book contains translations of forty-five works most of which have never before been available in a Western language Many of these highlight types of discourse especially ritual manuals folktales and oral narratives and voices vernacular esoteric domestic and female that have not been sufficiently represented in previous anthologies and standard accounts of Indian religions The selections are drawn from ancient texts medieval manuscripts modern pamphlets and contemporary fieldwork in rural and urban India They represent every region in South Asia and include Hindu Buddhist Jain Sikh and Muslim materials Some are written texts reflecting elite concerns while others are transcriptions of oral narratives told by nonliterate peasants Some texts are addressed to a public and pan-Indian audience others to a limited coterie of initiates in an esoteric sect and still others are intended for a few women gathered in the courtyard for a household ceremony The editor has reinforced this diversity by arranging the selections within several overarching themes and categories of discourse hymns rituals narratives and religious interactions and encourages us to make our own connections

Body Parts Michelle Voss Roberts, 2017-12-01 Christians have traditionally claimed that humans are created in the image of God imago Dei but they have consistently defined that image in ways that exclude people from full humanity The most well-known definition locates the image in the rational soul which is constructed in such a way that women children and many persons with disabilities are found deficient Body Parts claims the importance of embodiment difference and limitation not only as descriptions of the human condition but also as part of the imago Dei itself
