Ellis, 2003-12-16 This Encyclopedia brings together the most recent scientific information on a collection of subjects that are too often and inconveniently treated in separate publications. It provides a survey of archaeological method and theory as well as the application of physical and biological sciences in archaeological research. Every aspect of archaeological work is represented from the discovery process to the ultimate disposition of materials. Thus the reader will find entries on subject matter covering disciplinary theory, legislation affecting the work of archaeologists, pre-excavation surveying, excavation methodology, on-site conservation techniques, post-excavation analysis. The rapid evolution of analytical technology is often superficially treated or not covered at all in textbooks or other commonly available sources. Here the latest refinements in techniques such as radiometric dating, stable isotopic analysis, and the PCR technique of DNA analysis are presented clearly and authoritatively. The discussion of these techniques is amplified by including results of the work of professionals conducting interdisciplinary research and by covering the methodological enhancements provided by the physical and natural sciences. Cultural property legislation, regardless of its country of origin, has affected how archaeologists conduct their work. This encyclopedia covers all major U.S. legislation developed for the protection of cultural property, including the recent Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act, and offers a substantial article on worldwide legislation concerning the reburial of human remains and its effects on the present and future practice of archaeology. Without some sort of conservation program at the point of excavation, valuable materials may be inadvertently contaminated or destroyed. Many simple and low-cost techniques to promote both sample integrity and long-term preservation for major classes of materials are described in this volume. Traditional treatments of method and theory usually focus on prehistoric periods and are limited in their geographic range. This volume includes discussions based on various historical periods on different continents as reflected in entries such as Historical Archaeology, Industrial Archaeology, Medieval Archaeology, and Classical Archaeology.

New Insights into the Iron Age Archaeology of Edom, Southern Jordan Erez Ben-Yosef, Thomas E. Levy, Mohammad Najjar, 2014-12-31 Situated south of the Dead Sea near the famous Nabatean capital of Petra, the Faynan region in Jordan contains the largest deposits of copper ore in the southern Levant. The Edom Lowlands Regional Archaeology Project (ELRAP) takes an anthropological archaeology approach to the deep time study of culture change in one of the Old World's most important locales for studying technological development. Using innovative digital tools for data recording, curation, analyses, and dissemination, the researchers focused on ancient mining and metallurgy as the subject of surveys and excavations related to the Iron Age (ca. 1200-500 BCE) when the first local historical state-level societies appeared in this part of the eastern Mediterranean basin. This comprehensive and important volume challenges the current scholarly consensus concerning the emergence and historicity of the Iron Age polity of biblical Edom and some of its neighbors such as ancient Israel. Excavations and radiometric dating establish a new chronology for Edom, adding almost 500 more years to the Iron Age, including key periods of biblical history when David, Solomon, and the Egyptian pharaoh Shoshenq I are alleged to have interacted with Edom Included is a 7 gigabyte DVD with over 55 000 files of additional data and photographs from the project The British Journal of Photography ,1989 Meteorology, photography, geology, natural history, anthropology, industry and commerce, archaeology, medical, etc Royal Geographical Society (Great Britain),1906 Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress. Cataloging Policy and Support Office,2007 Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress. Office for Subject Cataloging Policy,1991 Decolonising Heritage in South Asia Himanshu Prabha Ray,2018-09-05 This volume cross examines the stability of heritage as a concept It interrogates the past which materialises through multi layered narratives on monuments and other objects that sustain cultural diversity It seeks to understand how interpretations of monuments as texts are affected at the local level of experience even as institutions such as UNESCO work to globalise and fix constructs of stable and universal heritage Shifting away from a largely Eurocentric concept associated with architecture and monumental archaeology this book reassesses how local and regional heritage needs to be balanced with the global and transnational It argues that material objects and monuments are not static embodiments of culture but are rather a medium through which identity power and society are produced and reproduced This is especially relevant in South and Southeast Asian contexts where debates over heritage often have local regional and national political implications and consequences Reevaluating how traditional valuation of monuments and cultural landscapes could help aid sustainability and long term preservation of the heritage this book will be useful for scholars and researchers of South and Southeast Asian history heritage studies archaeology cultural studies tourism studies and political history as well
