The Skyscraper and the City Gail Fenske, 2008-08 Once the world's tallest skyscraper the Woolworth Building is noted for its striking but incongruous synthesis of Beaux Arts architecture fanciful Gothic ornamentation and audacious steel framed engineering Here in the first history of this great urban landmark Gail Fenske argues that its design serves as a compelling lens through which to view the distinctive urban culture of Progressive era New York Fenske shows here that the building's multiplicity of meanings reflected the cultural contradictions that defined New York City's modernity For Frank Woolworth founder of the famous five and dime store chain the building served as a towering trademark for advocates of the City Beautiful movement it suggested a majestic hotel de ville for technological enthusiasts it represented the boldest of experiments in vertical construction and for tenants it provided an evocative setting for high style consumption Tourists meanwhile experienced a spectacular sightseeing destination and avant garde artists discovered a twentieth century future In emphasizing this faceted significance Fenske illuminates the process of conceiving financing and constructing skyscrapers as well as the mass phenomena of consumerism marketing news media and urban spectatorship that surround them As the representative example of the skyscraper as a cathedral of commerce the Woolworth Building remains a commanding presence in the skyline of lower Manhattan and the generously illustrated Skyscraper and the City is a worthy testament to its importance in American culture

Marsden Hartley and the West Heather Hole, Georgia O'Keeffe Museum, 2007-01-01 A revelatory look at Hartley's New Mexico landscapes and the darker side of postwar American modernism Considered to be among the greatest early American modernists the painter Marsden Hartley 1877-1943 traveled the United States and Europe in his search for a distinctive American aesthetic His stay in New Mexico resulted in an extraordinary series of landscape paintings created in New Mexico New York and Europe between 1918 and 1924 that show an evolution in style and thinking that is important for understanding both Hartley's oeuvre and American modernism in the postwar years Marsden Hartley and the West examines this pivotal stage of the painter's career drawing upon his writings and providing illustrations of rarely seen and previously unpublished works The author considers Hartley's involvement with the Stieglitz circle and its soil and spirit philosophy the Taos art colony New York Dada and the impact of historical events such as World War I Within this setting she analyzes the pastels and oil paintings that suggest Hartley's increasingly ambivalent response to the land Beginning with optimistic naturalistic views the New Mexico works grew progressively darker and more tumultuous increasingly reflecting a sense of loss brought on by war The paintings become a site where the landscapes of memory self and nation merge while reflecting broader modernist debates about American-ness and a usable past
