Beddoe,1971 The Races of Britain John Beddoe,2018-10-08 John Beddoe 1826 1911 was Britain s foremost anthropologist who specialized in the study of race craniology and racial origins The Races of Britain A Contribution to the Anthropology of Western Europe was his first complete overview of the racial and sub racial makeup of the British Isles His primary means of measure was skull and hair eye colour combinations Through cross testing with the European continent he found that the original inhabitants of Britain had been dark haired and dark eyed and that the greater part of the blond population of modern Britain derive their ancestry from the Anglo Saxons and Scandinavians Furthermore he found the proportion of English and Scotch blood in the present inhabitants of Ireland is probably not much less than a third Beddoe also found that dark haired population was re occupying Britain by a reflux migration and that their numbers would steadily increase over time His conclusions have since been verified by DNA testing which serves as a testament to the thoroughness of his research This is a valuable work which serves as a testament to the original make up of the British people and will serve as beacon of the past pointing into the future as mass Third World immigration changes the racial make up of Britain in the present day Classic European anthropology at its best The Races of Great Britain. A Contribution to the Anthropology of Western Europe. [With Plates and Maps.] John BEDDOE,1885 Anthropology and Race in Belgium and the Congo (1839-1922) Maarten Couttenier,2023-11-03 This book examines the history of Belgian physical anthropology in the long nineteenth century and discusses how the notion of race structured Belgian pasts and presents as well as relations between metropole and empire In a context of competing European nationalisms Belgian anthropologists mainly used physical characters like skull form and the color of hair and eyes to delimitate races which were believed to be permanent and existent Their belief in a supposed racial superiority was however above all telling about their own origins and physical characters Although it is often assumed that these ideas were subsequently transferred to the colony the case of Belgian colonization in Congo shows that colonial administrators at least in theory were reluctant to use the idea of permanent races because they needed the possibility of evolution to legitimize their actions as part of a civilizing mission In reality however colonization was based on military occupation and economic exploitation with devastating effects This book analyzes how in this violent context widespread racial prejudices in fact dehumanized Congolese This not only allowed colonizers to act inhuman but also reduced Congolese or their body parts to objects that could be measured photographed casted and collected This volume will be of use to students and scholars alike interested in social and cultural history as well as imperial and colonial history The Races of Europe Richard McMahon, 2016-11-15 This book explores a vital but neglected chapter in the histories of nationalism racism and science It is the first comprehensive study of the transnational scientific community that in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries attempted to classify Europe's biological races Anthropological race classifiers produced parallel geographies histories and hierarchies of European peoples that were crucial to the creation of national identities and to the overtly political race discourses of eugenics and popular racist ideologues They lent nationalism the invaluable prestige of natural science and traced the histories conflicts and relationships of national races back into prehistory Racial national character stereotypes meanwhile supported competing political ideologies The book examines the interplay between class gender and national identity narratives and the tensions and interactions between the scientific and political agendas of classifiers Within the elaborate transnational networks of scientific communities for example they had to reconcile competing national narratives We Europeans? Tony Kushner, 2017-03-02 We Europeans is the first book length study of the original mass observation project It is also the first detailed historical study of the formation of ordinary people's racial attitudes in Britain Drawing upon historical literary cultural and anthropological approaches this book examines the sources of cultural identity in Britain in the twentieth century and how these were shaped through the influences of family education and everyday high and low culture The examination focuses on the archives of the British social anthropological organization Mass Observation and is the first detailed history of it to be published Founded in the 1930s by poets psychoanalysts surrealists and sociologists among others the purpose of the organization was to create an anthropology of the British people by the natives themselves through the use of diaries directives and special surveys The organization was active from 1937 to 1951 then revived in the 1980s when a new group of Mass Observers were recruited to keep diaries and respond to directives Both the historical archive of Mass

Observation and the more recent material provide fascinating insight into the everyday lives and formation of identities of ordinary people in Britain Kushner places the material from these archives in the context of other contemporary writings through them he explores grassroots identities in Britain in relation to the outside world especially Europe but also the former Empire and the USA This study will be of interest to scholars of sociology cultural studies literary studies and history who are particularly interested in race race relations immigration and cultural difference

Colonialism, World Literature, and the Making of the Modern Culture of Letters Baidik Bhattacharya, 2024-02-08 In a radical and ambitious reconceptualization of the field this book argues that global literary culture since the eighteenth century was fundamentally shaped by colonial histories It offers a comprehensive account of the colonial inception of the literary sovereign how the realm of literature was thought to be separate from history and politics and then follows that narrative through a wide array of different cultures multilingual archives and geographical locations Providing close studies of colonial archives German philosophy of aesthetics French realist novels and English literary history this book shows how colonialism shaped and reshaped modern literary cultures in decisive ways It breaks fresh ground across disciplines such as literary studies anthropology history and philosophy and invites one to rethink the history of literature in a new light
