

Silver

Kupoon stuffed his stiff hands into his pockets and huffed out a shallow breath, briefly clouding his view of the forest. He'd been here for a moon's turn, waiting diligently for the Silver.

His tribe had called Canada's Great Bear Forest home for thousands of years, their traditions surviving for just as long. Those traditions were the reason Kupoon was here to kill the Silver. It was the first that every boy must complete in order to claim his rightful place as the tribe's chief. Two moons before a boy's eighteenth birthday, he must venture into the forest with only his furs, a small tin and a knife. Upon his successful return, the chieftain would be bestowed on him. If he should fail, his return would incur a shameful facial branding.

The day turned to night without a trace of the Silver. No split twigs, no prints, not even droppings. His journey had already greedily eaten through half of his time like a hot knife through soap. And the realization was fast becoming a burden too heavy to bear. He had spent his time gathering berries, bark and herbs for healing poultices, whittling wood for spears, haraging, and preparing.

Using a sharp rock and some flint, Kupoon made a small fire by which to keep warm and cook the rabbit he had snared. He took no joy in killing, but it was necessary for his survival.

He gorged the flesh and sucked the bones until not a tender of meat remained. With the meal finished and the debris discarded in the flames, Kupoon cleaned and shaped the left, eager to make use of as much of nature's bounty as possible. The feeling of a sluggish, familiar haze fogged his brain and weighed on his eyelids, anchors threatening to drag him down into the inky depths of slumber.

From a distance, wreathed in shadow, wary eyes watched on as Kupoon drifted to sleep.

The human's eyes are closed and its limbs twitch. Deep sleep. Safety. The wind and the Bear come right to touch its face. A rustle. A crack. The human hunts me, but I am hidden. I cannot be found not yet. The scent of predator breath. Smell the air. Something lurks. Moonlight. Cold. It covers my crown of bone.

Kupoon awoke with a start, his body slick with sweat. He ground the heels of his hands into his eyes to clear away the night's vivid dreams of ice and light. The small fire had died, leaving nothing but the charred bones of yesterday's skinny meal and the waxy traces of sweet smoke. He wondered how many boys had come before him on this quest? How many had died and failed? He had heard whispers in the village, but what happened out here was secret and private. Any boy of age must try, but none had succeeded in the past century. Only a handful of changed and scarred men had returned.
