Marianne, who wrote for the Christian press over a period of fifty years, both reflected and shaped aspects of popular Nonconformity through her poetry, prose, and biographies. She covered topics as varied as the theology of hell and votes for women. This investigation explores major aspects of Marianne's many faceted life and thought and discusses her views of women's roles, her educational work, her public life, for example, as a popular lecturer, and her spirituality. Informed by Marianne's life and writings, it challenges a number of stereotypes of Victorian evangelicalism, including assumptions about evangelical women and the relationship between Evangelicalism and feminism. It is a significant contribution to the history of Victorian Nonconformity. Interior, 1921
