Hersey,2010-04-07 In this book Hoyk and Hersey describe 45 unethical traps into which any one of us can fall These traps they say can erupt in any organizational environment Some of these traps distort our perception of right and wrong so we actually believe our unethical behavior is right Many of them are psychological in nature and if we are not aware of them they are like illusions webs of deception In the authors analysis these traps significantly contributed to the large scale corporate disasters we witnessed in recent years Hoyk and Hersey take account of these realities and offer a real world method that will predict preclude and if necessary get us out of these traps Given the increased scrutiny under which all executives and managers operate today this book is a must read for anyone who is charged with achieving an organization s mission whether that mission is increasing profit serving the common good or both Readings on Human Nature Peter

Loptson,1998-02-04 This anthology brings together 45 selections by a wide range of philosophers and other thinkers and provides a representative sampling of the approaches to the study of human nature that have been taken within the western tradition The selections range in time from the ancient Greeks to the 1990s and in political orientation from the conservative individualism of Ayn Rand to the liberalism of John Rawls Classic writings from the sixteenth through nineteenth centuries are here Descartes Machiavelli Hobbes Rousseau and so on but so are a wide range of twentieth century writings including a number of feminist voices the biological theory of Edward O Wilson and the cultural materialist theory of Marvin Harris A substantial selection of Christian views of human nature is a central part of the anthology The anthology is as notable for its depth as it is for its breadth an important editorial principle has been to include a variety of substantial selections thus allowing the reader to engage more readily with some of the complexities of each approach [Catalog of Copyright Entries. Stone,2023-05-25 An excellent introduction to the field of animal studies the applications of these ideas to biblical passages illuminate the text in new ways Brandon R Grafius Horizons in Biblical Theology Animal studies may be a recent academic development but our fascination with animals is nothing new Surviving cave paintings are of animal forms and closer to us as Ken Stone points out animals populate biblical literature from beginning to end This book explores the significance of animal studies for the interpretation of the Hebrew Bible Combined with biblical scholarship animal studies sheds useful light on animals animal symbolism and the relations among animals humans and God not only for those who study biblical literature and its ancient context but for contemporary readers concerned with environmental social and animal ethics Without the presence of domesticated and wild animals neither biblical traditions nor the religions that make use of the Bible would exist in their current forms Although parts of the Bible draw a clear line between humans and animals other passages complicate that line in multiple ways and challenge our assumptions about the roles animals play therein Engaging influential thinkers including Jacques Derrida Donna Haraway and other experts in animal and ecological studies Reading the Hebrew Bible with Animal Studies shows how prehumanist texts reveal unexpectedly relevant dynamics and themes for our posthumanist age

Stone's ecological sensibilities, theoretical acumen and incisive exegetical arguments open up fresh perspectives. Stephen D Moore, The Theological School, Drew University. This monograph is poised to become a key work in the field. Anne L. Tourneau, Reading Religion, Groundbreaking. Carol J. Dempsey, OP, Horizons.

Reading the Animal Text in the Landscape of the Damned Les Mitchell, 2019-10-22. Reading the animal text in the landscape of the damned looks at the diverse texts of our everyday world relating to nonhuman animals and examines the meanings we imbibe from them. It describes ways in which we can explore such artefacts especially from the perspective of groups and individuals with little or no power. This work understands the oppression of nonhuman animals as being part of a spectrum incorporating sexism, racism, xenophobia, economic exploitation and other forms of oppression. The enquiry includes physical landscapes, the law, women's rights, history, slavery, language use, economic coercion, farming, animal experimentation and much more. Reading the animal text in the landscape of the damned is an academic work but is accessible, theoretically based but robustly practical and it encourages the reader to take this enquiry further for both themselves and for others.

Reading Marx in the Information Age Christian Fuchs, 2015-10-23. Renowned Marxist scholar and critical media theorist Christian Fuchs provides a thorough chapter by chapter introduction to Capital Volume 1 that assists readers in making sense of Karl Marx's most important and groundbreaking work in the information age, exploring Marx's key concepts through the lens of media and communication studies via contemporary phenomena like the Internet, digital labour, social media, the media industries and digital class struggles. Through a range of international, current day examples, Fuchs emphasises the continued importance of Marx and his work in a time when transnational media companies like Amazon, Google and Facebook play an increasingly important role in global capitalism. Discussion questions and exercises at the end of each chapter help readers to further apply Marx's work to a modern day context.
