Readings In Physical Anthropology:

Physical Anthropology and Archaeology Peter B. Hammond, 1976 Physical Anthropology and Archaeology Peter B. Hammond, 1964 Readings in Physical Anthropology Thomas W. McKern, 1966 A Portrait of Humankind Arthur Charles Durband, Robert Rolfe Paine, 2012-07-01

A Portrait of Humankind Current Readings in Physical Anthropology contains articles that represent some of the most recent cutting edge research being done in physical anthropology. They include essays on the perceived conflicts between science and faith, work in forensic anthropology, primate social behavior, human origins and evolution, and aspects of modern human variability. These readings will enhance both lecture and laboratory classes in physical anthropology and will allow students to study a variety of topics in greater detail. This reader is intended for undergraduates attending Intro to biological anthropology classes. It can be used to facilitate discussions during the lab period and to spark student interest as they write short papers on specific topics in biological anthropology.

Selections in A Portrait of Humankind Current Readings in Physical Anthropology are organized into five topical chapters: Chapter 1 Genetics and Evolutionary Theory; Chapter 2 Osteology; Chapter 3 Primates; Chapter 4 Human Evolution; Chapter 5 Human Variation.

Arthur Durband is a paleoanthropologist who received his PhD from the University of Tennessee. He has done field work or studied fossil collections in Indonesia, Australia, and Europe. Dr. Durband's research focuses on the origins of modern humans and the peopling of Australia.

Robert R. Paine received his PhD from the University of Massachusetts Amherst. He is a member of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences. Dr. Paine has taught biological anthropology courses at Texas Tech University for 16 years. He also works as a forensic anthropologist helping local Sheriffs and Texas Rangers on a number of skeletal cases. Dr. Paine has examined over 1,200 skeletons from Italy covering a time period of early Etruscans to Imperial Rome.

Readings in Physical Anthropology and Archaeology David E. Hunter, Phillip Whitten, 1978-01-01 Physical Anthropology Peter Neal Peregrine, Carol R. Ember, Melvin Ember, 2002

The carefully selected works in this collection help readers understand the methods, practices, and experiences of some of the top physical anthropologists working in the field today. Each article reflects the contributors' experiences, insights, and opinions in a lively, semi-autobiographical manner. Conveys not only what contributors found but how they found it and what the experience was like. Brings the experiences and insights of active scholars to practical research matters. Introduces basic concepts of biological evolution and evolutionary theory. Explores our australopithecine and early human ancestors and considers how and why humans evolved. Considers both the nature and causes of physical variation among contemporary peoples. For anyone interested in learning more about physical anthropology, its methods, and discoveries.
