In 1990, Peter Senge published "The Fifth Discipline" (later followed by "The Fifth Discipline Fieldbook: Strategies and Tools for Building a Learning Organization" in 1994). His books pulled together his extensive research into:

- What different organisations do to build learning capacity? And
- Why some organisations use learning better than others?

Senge codified these practices into what he called 'The 5 Learning Disciplines' as well as coming up with the concept-label of 'learning organisations'.

Writing Alice S. Horning, Elizabeth W. Kraemer, 2013-09-06 Reconnecting Reading and Writing explores the ways in which reading can and should have a strong role in the teaching of writing in college Reconnecting Reading and Writing draws on broad perspectives from history and international work to show how and why reading should be reunited with writing in college and high school classrooms It presents an overview of relevant research on reading and how it can best be used to support and enhance writing instruction Handbook of Research on Reading Comprehension Susan E. Israel, 2016-11-29 This esteemed reference work and professional resource now substantially revised integrates classic and cutting edge research on how children and adolescents make meaning from text The comprehension tasks and challenges facing students at different grade levels are explored with attention to multiple text types and reading purposes Preeminent researchers offer a range of perspectives cognitive neuroscientific sociocultural pedagogical and technological on key aspects of comprehension Effective approaches to assessment instruction and intervention are reviewed The volume also addresses issues in teaching specific populations including struggling readers and English language learners New to This Edition A decade s worth of significant research advances are reflected in 10 entirely new chapters Revised throughout to incorporate new studies and timely topics the expanding role of technology changing school populations the Common Core standards international research and more Chapters on graphic scientific and multiple digital texts Chapters on fluency professional learning and literacy coaching Handbook of Reading Research, Volume II Rebecca Barr, Michael L. Kamil, Peter B. Mosenthal, P David Pearson, 2016-11-18 A comprehensive overview of important contemporary issues in the field of reading research from the mid 1980s to mid 1990s this well received volume offers readers an examination of literacy through a variety of lenses some permitting microscopic views and others panoramic views A veritable who s who of specialists in the field chapter authors cover current methodology as well as cumulative research based knowledge Because it deals with society and literacy the first section provides the broadest possible view of literacy The second section defines the range of activities culturally determined to be a part of the enterprise known as literacy The third focuses on the processes that individuals engage in when they perform the act of reading The fourth section visits the environment in which the knowledge that comprises literacy is passed on from one generation to the next The last section an epilogue to the whole enterprise of reading research provides apt philosophical reflection Reading across the Disciplines Karen Manarin,2022-05-03

Reading Across the Disciplines offers a collection of twelve essays detailing a range of approaches to dealing with students reading needs at the college level Transforming reading in higher education requires more than individual faculty members working on SoTL projects in their particular fields Teachers need to consider reading across the disciplines In this collection authors from Australia and North America teaching in a variety of disciplines explore reading in undergraduate courses doctoral seminars and faculty development activities By paying attention to the particular classroom and placing those observations in conversation with scholarly literature they create new knowledge about reading in higher education from disciplinary and cross disciplinary perspectives Reading Across the Disciplines demonstrates how existing research about reading can be applied to specific classroom contexts offering models for faculty members whose own research interests may lie elsewhere but who believe in the importance of reading The Harcourt Brace Guide to Writing in the Disciplines Robert Wayne Jones,Patrick Bizzaro,Cynthia L. Selfe,1997 Model Research Papers for Writers Janette Lewis,1991

Authoring A Discipline Maureen Daly Goggin,2000-05-01 Authoring a Discipline traces the post World War II emergence of rhetoric and composition as a discipline within departments of English in institutions of higher education in the United States Goggin brings to light both the evolution of this discipline and many of the key individuals involved in its development Drawing on archival and oral evidence this history offers a comprehensive and systematic investigation of scholarly journals the editors who directed them and the authors who contributed to them demonstrating the influence that publications and participants have had in the emergence of rhetoric and composition as an independent field of study Goggin considers the complex struggles in which scholars and teachers engaged to stake ground and to construct a professional and disciplinary identity She identifies major debates and controversies that ignited as the discipline emerged and analyzes how the editors and contributors to the major scholarly journals helped to shape and in turn were shaped by the field of rhetoric and composition She also coins a new term disciplinographer to describe those who write the field through authoring and authorizing work thus creating the social and political contexts in which the discipline emerged The research presented here demonstrates clearly how disciplines are social products born of political struggles for both intellectual and material spaces

Reading Old Books Peter Mack,2021-11-23 A wide ranging exploration of the creative power of literary tradition from Chaucer to the present In literary and cultural studies tradition is a word everyone uses but few address critically In Reading Old Books Peter Mack offers a wide ranging exploration of the creative power of literary tradition from the middle ages to the twenty first century revealing in new ways how it helps writers and readers make new works and meanings Reading Old

Books argues that the best way to understand tradition is by examining the moments when a writer takes up an old text and writes something new out of a dialogue with that text and the promptings of the present situation The book examines Petrarch as a user instigator and victim of tradition It shows how Chaucer became the first great English writer by translating and adapting a minor poem by Boccaccio It investigates how Ariosto Tasso and Spenser made new epic meanings by playing with assumptions episodes and phrases translated from their predecessors It analyzes how the Victorian novelist Elizabeth Gaskell drew on tradition to address the new problem of urban deprivation in Mary Barton And finally it looks at how the Kenyan writer Ngũgĩ wa Thiong'o in his 2004 novel Wizard of the Crow reflects on biblical English literary and African traditions Drawing on key theorists critics historians and sociologists and stressing the international character of literary tradition Reading Old Books illuminates the not entirely free choices readers and writers make to create meaning in collaboration and competition with their models
