Religion and Intimate Partner Violence Nancy Nason-Clark, Barbara Fisher-Townsend, Catherine Holtmann, Stephen McMullin, 2018 Intimate partner violence is a complex ugly fear inducing reality for large numbers of women around the world When violence exists in a relationship safety is compromised shame abounds and peace evaporates Violence is learned behavior and it flourishes most when it is ignored minimized or misunderstood When it strikes the homes of deeply religious women they are more vulnerable more likely to believe that their abusive partners can and will change less likely to leave a violent home temporarily or forever often reluctant to seek outside sources of assistance and frequently disappointed by the response of the religious leader to their call for help These women often believe they are called by God to endure the suffering to forgive and to keep on forgiving their abuser and to fulfill their marital vows until death do us part Concurrently many batterers employ explicitly religious language to justify the violence towards their partners and sometime they manipulate spiritual leaders who try to offer them help Religion and Intimate Partner Violence seeks to navigate the relatively uncharted waters of intimate partner violence in families of deep faith The program of research on which it is based spans over twenty five years and includes a wide variety of specific studies involving religious leaders congregations battered women men in batterer intervention programs and the army of workers who assist families impacted by abuse including criminal justice workers therapeutic staff advocacy workers and religious leaders The authors provide a rich and colorful portrayal of the intersection of intimate partner violence and religious beliefs and practices that inform and interweave throughout daily life Such a focus on lived religion enables readers to isolate examine and evaluate ways in which religion both augments and thwarts the journey towards justice accountability healing and wholeness for women and men caught in the web of intimate partner violence APAIS 1999: Australian public affairs information service , The Deacon Reader James Keating, 2006 Reimagining God and Resacralisation Alexa Blonner, 2019-05-14 This book shows that widespread resacralisation has been taking place which is producing new ways of perceiving God and the divine The last century has seen unmistakable changes in religious practices and the concept of spirituality right across the world There was a broad expectation for much of the twentieth century that religious worldviews would eventually succumb to the challenge of secularist materialism but this process of secularisation has yet to occur as predicted The book begins by contrasting theories of secularisation and resacralisation Throughout the book conceptual threads or new religious themes related to this resacralisation are discussed in terms of three main categories reimagining God's nature substance and location reimagining human value and purpose and reimagining modes of redemption Finally the book considers how these threads are moving in various different directions and what the religious future might hold This is a bold examination of contemporary spirituality that will appeal to academics and scholars of religious studies new religious movements and the sociology of religion
