Religion In The Soviet Union 1980 1989 Hc 1993:

Popular Religion in Russia Stella Rock, 2007-09-10 This book dispels the widely held view that paganism survived in Russia alongside Orthodox Christianity demonstrating that double belief dvoeverie is in fact an academic myth Scholars citing the medieval origins of the term have often portrayed Russian Christianity as uniquely muddled by paganism with double believing Christians consciously or unconsciously preserving pagan traditions even into the twentieth century This volume shows how the concept of dvoeverie arose with nineteenth century scholars obsessed with the Russian folk and was perpetuated as a propaganda tool in the Soviet period colouring our perception of both popular faith in Russian and medieval Russian culture for over a century It surveys the wide variety of uses of the term from the eleventh to the seventeenth century and contrasts them to its use in modern historiography concluding that our modern interpretation of dvoeverie would not have been recognized by medieval clerics and that double belief is a modern academic construct Furthermore it offers a brief foray into medieval Orthodoxy via the mind of the believer through the language and literature of the period

Geographies of Muslim Identities Professor Cara Aitchison, Professor Mei-Po Kwan, Professor Peter Hopkins, 2012-11-28 In recent years geographies of identities including those of ethnicity religion race and gender have formed an increasing focus of contemporary human geography The events of September 11th 2001 particularly illustrated the ways in which identities can be transformed across time and space by both global and local events of a social cultural political and economic nature Such transformations have also demonstrated the temporal and spatial construction of hate and fear and of increasing incidences of Islamophobia through the construction of Muslims as the Other As the social scientific study of religion continues to be marginalized within mainstream scholarship there remains an important gap in the literature This timely book addresses this gap by collecting a range of cutting edge contributions from the social cultural political historical and economic sub disciplines of geography together with writings from gender studies cultural studies and leisure studies where research has revealed a strong spatial dimension to the construction representation contestation and reworking of Muslim identities The contributors illustrate the ways in which such identities are constructed represented negotiated and contested in everyday life in a wide variety of international contexts focusing upon issues connected with diaspora gender and belonging
