Cultures     World History as the History of Foundations, 3000 BCE to 1500 CE Michael Borgolte, 2019-10-29 In World History as the History of Foundations 3000 BCE to 1500 CE Michael Borgolte investigates the origins and development of foundations from Antiquity to the end of the Middle Ages In his survey foundations emerge not as mere legal institutions but rather as total social phenomena which touch upon manifold aspects including politics the economy art and religion of the cultures in which they emerged Cross cultural in its approach and the result of decades of research this work represents by far the most comprehensive account of the history of foundations that has hitherto been published     Marx and Weber on Oriental Societies Lutfi Sunar, 2016-05-06 The Orient was central to the work of Marx and Weber both figures building their theories around the question of why modernity appeared to emerge only in the West While Marx's account focused on the accumulation of capital in the West Weber's explanation for this phenomenon centred on Western rationalization Extending recent work comparing the social theories of Marx and Weber this book examines their approaches to Oriental societies showing how in spite of the differences in their respective theorizations of the historical and political development of the West their work on the form of modern society in the Orient converges each complementing the other Fully conversant with recent scholarly work on Marx and Weber this comprehensive re-examination of the points of convergence and departure in their work requires us to re-evaluate both their positions in the history of sociology and their relevance to contemporary social questions As such it will appeal to scholars of social and political theory and classical sociology     In Difer Hoffnung Verwurzelt Barbara Hoster, Dirk Kuhlmann, Zbigniew Wesolowski, 2017-04-07 This Festschrift is dedicated to the former Director and Editor in chief of the Monumenta Serica Institute in Sankt Augustin Germany Roman Malek S V D in recognition of his scholarly commitment to China The two volume work contains 40 articles by his academic colleagues companions in faith confreres as well as by the staff of the Monumenta Serica Institute and the China Zentrum e V China Center The contributions in English German and Chinese pay homage to the jubilarian's diverse research interests covering the fields of Chinese Intellectual History History of Christianity in China Christianity in China Today Other Religions in China Chinese Language and Literature as well as the Encounter of Cultures     The Divine Verdict John Gwyn Griffiths, 1991 The theme of divine judgement has often been treated but usually with a concentration on one of its two main aspects either that which is seen in the present life and in history or that which is believed to occur only after death This new study seeks to combine the two aspects It also tries to cover the whole spectrum of the ancient religions Special attention is given to Israel Greece and Egypt Israel's neighbours are also considered and there are discussions of Judaism Christianity and Zoroastrianism In several areas notably in Egypt and Israel it is shown that punishment in this life is sometimes presented as a fate that man brings upon himself rather than as one imposed by God though always against a moral background derived from religion The origins of judgement after death in the Judaeo-Christian tradition are examined in some detail and elements are traced to Egyptian Zoroastrian and Judaic sources     Religious Publishing and Print Culture in Modern China Philip

Clart, Gregory Adam Scott, 2014-12-16 Scholarly interest in print culture and in the study of religion in modern China has increased in recent years propelled by maturing approaches to the study of cultural history and by a growing recognition that both were important elements of China's recent past. The influence of China in the contemporary world continues to expand and with it has come an urgent need to understand the processes by which its modern history was made. Issues of religious freedom and of religion's influence on the public sphere continue to be contentious but important subjects of scholarly work and the role of print and textual media has not dimmed with the advent of electronic communication. This book Religious Publishing and Print Culture in Modern China 1800-2012 speaks to these contemporary and historical issues by bringing to light the important and abiding connections between religious development and modern print culture in China. Bringing together these two subjects has a great deal of potential for producing insights that will appeal to scholars working in a range of fields from media studies to social historians. Each chapter demonstrates how focusing on the role of publishing among religious groups in modern China generates new insights and raises new questions. They examine how religious actors understood the role of printed texts in religion, dealt with issues of translation and exegesis, produced print media that heralded social and ideological changes and expressed new self-understandings in their published works. They also address the impact of new technologies such as mechanized movable type and lithographic presses in the production and meaning of religious texts. Finally, the chapters identify where religious print culture crossed confessional lines, connecting religious traditions through links of shared textual genres, commercial publishing companies and the contributions of individual editors and authors. This book thus demonstrates how, in embracing modern print media and building upon their longstanding traditional print cultures, Christian, Buddhist, Daoist and popular religious groups were developed and defined in modern China. While the chapter authors are specialists in religious traditions, they have made use of recent studies into publishing and print culture and like many of the subjects of their research are able to make connections across religious boundaries and link together seemingly discrete traditions. Official and Popular Religion P. H. Vrijhof, Jean Jacques

Waardenburg, 1979 The series Religion and Society RS contributes to the exploration of religions as social systems both in Western and non-Western societies. In particular, it examines religions in their differentiation from and intersection with other cultural systems such as art, economy, law and politics. Due attention is given to paradigmatic case or comparative studies that exhibit a clear theoretical orientation with the empirical and historical data of religion and such aspects of religion as ritual, the religious imagination, constructions of tradition, iconography or media. In addition, the formation of religious communities, their construction of identity and their relation to society and the wider public are key issues of this series. From
