Remaking Life Death:

Remaking Life Albert William Beaven, 1940 Remaking Humanity Adam Beyt, 2024-08-22 Drawing upon Edward Schillebeeckx's theology and Judith Butler's philosophy Adam Beyt uses the framework of nonviolent hope to construct a Catholic political theology responding to dehumanizing violence Dehumanizing violence names words institutions or acts violating the inherent dignity of being made in the image and likeness of God Theology can participate in dehumanizing violence by claiming an uninterrogated universality that marginalizes bodies due to their perceived differences such as gender race sexuality or ability The book's constructive project integrates Schillebeeckx's and Butler's thought with queer theory and phenomenology to model embodiment as an enfleshing dynamism between bodies and signification The text then posits Catholic discipleship as incarnating hope by defending the humanum the new humanity announced through God's Reign Combining reflections from Schillebeeckx and Butler this hope centers discipleship as nonviolent world building Concluding with a sustained reflection with the writings of Franz Fanon and Walter Benjamin the final chapter sketches a Catholic solidaristic response to contemporary struggles against the necropolitics of colonizing and state violence through assemblies of hope An Anthropology of Biomedicine Margaret M. Clarke, Laura Mamo, Jennifer Ruth Fosket, Jennifer R. Fishman, Janet K. Shim, 2010-08-31 Essays describing how dramatic and especially technoscientific changes in the constitution organization and practices of contemporary biomedicine have coalesced since the mid 1980s in biomedicalization the second transformation of American medicine Transhumanism Jennifer Huberman, 2020-12-17 Through a detailed exploration of the study of transhumanism this book introduces students to the discipline of cultural anthropology Regenerating Bodies Julie Kent, 2012-07-26 This exciting book examines how human tissues and cells are being exchanged commodified and commercialized by new health technologies Through a discussion of emergent global tissue economies the author explores the social dynamics of innovation in the fields of tissue engineering and stem cell science The book explores how regenerative medicine configures and conceptualizes bodies and argues that the development of regenerative medicine is a feminist issue In Regenerating Bodies Kent critically examines the transformative potential of regenerative medicine and whether it represents a paradigm shift from more traditional forms of biomedicine The book shows that users of these technologies are gendered and women's bodies are enrolled in the production of them in particular ways So what is the value of a feminist bioethics for thinking about the ethical issues at stake Drawing on extensive qualitative field research Kent examines the issues around donation procurement banking and engineering of human tissues and presents an analysis of the regulatory and policy debates surrounding these practices within Europe and the UK The book considers the claims that regenerative medicine represents exciting possibilities for treating the diseases of ageing bodies critically assessing what kind of futures are embodied in tissue and cell based therapies It will be of interest to a wide range of scholars and students within the social sciences in health technology studies bioethics feminist studies and gender and health studies

Technonatures Damian F. White, Chris Wilbert, 2010-04-05 Environmentalism and social sciences appear to be in a period of disorientation and perhaps transition In this innovative collection leading international thinkers explore the notion that one explanation for the current malaise of the politics of ecology is that we increasingly find ourselves negotiating technonatural space times International contributors map the political ecologies of our technonatural present and indicate possible paths for technonatural futures The term technonatures is in debt to a long line of environmental cultural theory from Raymond Williams onwards problematizing the idea that a politics of the environment can be usefully grounded in terms of the rhetoric of defending the pure the authentic or an idealized past solely in terms of the ecological or the natural In using the term technonatures as an organizing myth and metaphor for thinking about the politics of nature in contemporary times this collection seeks to explore one increasingly pronounced dimension of the social natures discussion Technonatures highlights a growing range of voices considering the claim that we are not only inhabiting diverse social natures but that within such natures our knowledge of our worlds is ever more technologically mediated produced enacted and contested

Man Remakes the Earth Sidney Merry, 2006-08-14 The advancement of man has always led to cries of doom We examine these cries including those applying to the green and anti nuclear movements We suggest that these developments can be controlled to man's future advantage through the application of science
