Savoirs Paysans Et Da Veloppement Farming Knowledge And Development Economie Et Da Veloppement:

Farming knowledge and development Georges Dupré, 1991-01-01 Les savoirs paysans font l'objet de très nombreuses études. Ils sont devenus des objets de recherche. Mais ils n'ont pas été pour autant pris en compte dans la plupart des projets de développement. Près d'un quart de siècles d'opérations de développement conduites sur tous les continents avec des succès divers rendent urgent d'établir enfin la jonction entre la recherche et le développement. C'est cette tâche nécessaire que ce livre veut contribuer. Cette entreprise est placée sous le signe de la diversité. Vingt-trois chapitres présentent les résultats de recherches menées dans douze pays par des scientifiques de dix traditions universitaires différentes. Toutes les disciplines des sciences sociales sont présentes, mais aussi l'agronomie, la nutrition, la recherche développement et la communication. Les sociétés paysannes changent, se transforment, innovent. Et cela à un rythme qui n'est pas forcément aussi lent que l'on a bien voulu le dire. Aussi, il est fallacieux d'imputer la responsabilité des échecs des opérations de développement à la résistance des paysans au changement ou à la mentalité paysanne. Le problème pour les paysans est de maîtriser les techniques qui leur sont proposées et de s'en approprier. Les textes réunis ici témoignent de la capacité des sociétés paysannes à adapter de nouvelles contraintes. Le rôle du chercheur est d'identifier cette capacité, de trouver les moyens de la stimuler, de l'intégrer au système de développement et de l'utiliser, éventuellement, à la place de la recherche officielle. Ce programme et ce rôle assignés au chercheur impliquent une redistribution des cartes entre la Recherche et le Développement. Abstracts on Tropical Agriculture, 1994

Anthropology and Development Jean-Pierre Oliver De-Sardan, 2008-02-29 This book re-establishes the relevance of mainstream anthropological and sociological approaches to development processes and simultaneously recognizes that contemporary development ought to be anthropology's principal area of study. Professor de Sardan argues for a socio-anthropology of change and development that is a deeply empirical, multidimensional, diachronic study of social groups and their interactions. The Introduction provides a thought-provoking examination of the principal new approaches that have emerged in the discipline during the 1990s. Part I then makes clear the complexity of social change and development and the ways in which socio-anthropology can measure up to the challenge of this complexity. Part II looks more closely at some of the leading variables involved in the development process, including relations of production, the logics of social action, the nature of knowledge, forms of mediation and political strategies. paysanne sur le plateau Adja du Bénin, 1997-01-01 Research on Agricultural Systems Jean-Philippe Colin, 2000 The purpose of this book is to provide an overview of research on agricultural systems that is both broad and selective. The focus is broad by covering approaches used in a number of disciplines as well as in multidisciplinary studies and by defining agricultural systems to include cropping systems, farming systems, agricultural household systems and agricultural systems at higher levels such as the agrarian system. The focus is selective by emphasizing key methods and ongoing debates rather than attempting a comprehensive review of literature. Most previous reviews of research on agricultural systems have concentrated on a particular approach eg farming systems research FSR including comparisons of anglophone and francophone variants of FSR or on research conducted in specific geographical settings
